

General Assembly Votes 80 to 0 for Arab Peace Plan

Session Ends as Hammarskjöld
Prepares to Leave for Mid-East

BY TOM HOGE
United Nations, N. Y., (AP)—Dag Hammarskjöld prepared today to embark on an Arab-sponsored peace mission to the Middle East which won unanimous approval from the U. N. General Assembly.

The secretary general reportedly will be in the trouble area in less than two weeks. It will be his ninth peace-making trip to the area in 29 months.

The 81-nation assembly wound up its 2-week emergency session last night by voting 80-0 for the Arab resolution. It assigns Hammarskjöld the job of making arrangements to facilitate early withdrawal of U. S. troops from Lebanon and British forces from Jordan. The Dominican Republic was absent.

Reaffirms Pledges
The plan promises to safeguard the political and territorial integrity of Jordan and Lebanon by reaffirming the Arab nations' pledges to refrain from interfering in each others' domestic affairs.

Hammarskjöld also was asked to make plans for economic development of the Middle East in consultation with the Arab states.

"Secretary of State Dulles commended the Arabs for agreeing on a peace plan. But he warned against expecting that mere passage of a resolution would solve all the middle east's problems.

"These problems have deep roots," Dulles declared. "They have explosive aspects which can surprise us at any time."

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, who withdrew his own resolution in favor of the Arab plan, also had reservations. He voiced disappointment that the Arab proposal did not call for immediate withdrawal of British and U. S. troops, as did the Soviet resolution.

Issues Warning
Gromyko warned that the Soviet Union would renew its demand for a military pullout if withdrawal did not come quickly.

British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd promised that Britain would cooperate on early evacuation of her troops from Jordan.

Army Announces Call Up Policy In Emergency

Washington—(AP)—The army announced today a reserve call up policy aimed to put the most recently trained reservists on active duty first in time of national emergency.

The plan applies to 800,000 officers and enlisted men in the ready reserve who are not members of organized units of the National Guard. Excluded are individuals who have been given key mobilization assignments and members of research and development training detachments.

Under the policy, reservists called to duty will report directly to an assigned unit instead of to a reception center. Area and corps commanders are given responsibility for keeping records of the capabilities and special skills of reservists so the men can be assigned to units where they will be most needed.

NAACP to Ask High Court to Upset Ruling

Action Would Let Negroes Enter
Central High School

BY KEITH FULLER
Little Rock, Ark., (AP)—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People will ask the U. S. Supreme court today to knock down the legal barrier that would prevent Negro students from entering Central High school Sept. 2.

And Gov. Orval Faubus kept his special session plans in readiness in case the NAACP is successful in overturning the Eighth U. S. circuit court of appeals action that would block integration at the school until the supreme court made the final decision.

Little Rock's school board is going ahead on the assumption the Central will be an all-white high school when classes resume a week from next Tuesday. Registration begins this morning and if Negroes apply they will be told to attend Horace Mann Negro High school here.

Thurgood Marshall, attorney for the NAACP, said last night he would ask the supreme court to set aside the stay granted by the appeals court yesterday. If this action should be successful the way would be clear for Negroes to reenter the school on opening day.

Refused to Back Down
Faubus refused to back down immediately on his standby call for legislators to be ready for a session Monday when he heard that the Eighth circuit court of appeals at St. Louis had stayed its own decision that integration must proceed.

The governor said he wanted to be assured that the school board would take the opportunity afforded it to avoid integration and that the stay which would hold Negro students out of school until the supreme court acted would remain in effect.

Rifle Fire Breaks Out In Lebanon

Beirut—(AP)—A 15-minute exchange of rifle fire broke out in Beirut today while Lebanese were attempting to measure the effect of the Middle East resolution adopted unanimously in the U. N. General Assembly. First general reaction here was one of pleasure.

The firing developed in the neighborhood of the apartment of Dory Chamoun, son of President Camille Chamoun. After being reinforced, security forces silenced the rebel riflemen. At least one member of the security forces was wounded.

In a separate incident, the French vice-consul, Jean Gaspard, was seriously wounded by a gunman last night while driving from the airport to Beirut.

Despite these outbreaks, both opposition and government sources expressed pleasure at the outcome of U. N. deliberation which placed the major responsibility for peace on Arab states themselves. They said they expected that Lebanon's new president, Gen. Fuad Chehab, would now be able to take office next month in a comparatively relaxed atmosphere.

The effect may be to strengthen Lebanon's bonds with the Arab world.

Gallon Jug Explodes

Hilbert Boys Severely Cut by Flying Glass

Hilbert—Two boys were severely cut about 4:25 Thursday afternoon when a gallon glass jug with which they were playing exploded. Glass was showered in a 50-foot area in the basement of a home under construction, where they were playing.

Thomas Kuehne, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Inard Kuehne, was holding the jug against a faucet when an air pocket apparently developed and the pressure exploded the glass.

He suffered cuts about the head, arms and lower chest. One cut from his nose to mouth slashed to his teeth and a cut in his lowest chest just missed his lungs.

His companion, Daniel

Gigstead, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elman Gigstead, was cut about the forehead.

It took 21 stitches to close Tom's wounds and five to close Daniel's. X-ray examination was scheduled this morning for Tom to search for more glass.

Tom climbed out of the basement after the accident and ran to his home across the street. He was taken to Calumet Memorial hospital, Chilton, by his parents.

Donald Thiel, a carpenter working on the house, took Daniel to the hospital. Daniel's parents had just returned the sister from the hospital, where they had undergone tonsillectomies.

Construction Worker James Blake, 41, lies face down in wet concrete gasping for breath in this picture taken a few seconds after a 5-ton crane boom fell on him as he worked on a building project in Atlanta. His life was spared when fellow workers dug his head out of the mucky concrete and held it up while others lifted the crane to free his body.

Ike States U.S. Ready To Halt Nuclear Tests

Agree to Year's Suspension
Beginning Oct. 1 if Russia
Complies With 2 Conditions

Faced With a Visit to the dentist for extraction of her two front teeth, 7-year-old Debbie Scott, Brooklyn, joined the do-it-yourself club. Told by her mother the dentist would take something that looks like a pair of pliers and pull the teeth, Debbie skipped away and returned a little later with a toothless grin. "It didn't hurt a bit," she says.

Washington—(AP)—President Eisenhower announced today the United States is ready to suspend nuclear weapons tests for one year starting Oct. 31, provided Russia meets two conditions. The conditions are if the Soviet Union agrees to maintain its current ban on nuclear tests, and further agrees to negotiations looking toward a permanent ban.

The White House said Great

Britain also stands ready to join in a 1-year suspension of weapons tests under the same conditions specified by the United States.

Eisenhower stressed in a statement that the United States is not proposing that nuclear tests for peaceful purposes be halted.

Referring to technical talks on policing a ban, concluded at Geneva this week, Eisenhower said:

"The United States, taking account of the Geneva conclusions, is prepared to proceed promptly to negotiate an agreement with other nations which have tested nuclear weapons for the suspension of nuclear weapons tests and the actual establishment of an international controls system on the basis of the experts' report.

Major Shift

"If this is accepted in principle by the other nations which have tested nuclear weapons, then in order to facilitate the detailed negotiations, the United States is prepared, unless testing is resumed by the Soviet Union, to withhold further testing on its part of atomic and hydrogen weapons for a period of one year from the beginning of the negotiations."

The president's announcement reflected a major shift in U. S. nuclear policy.

He said that as part of the contemplated international agreement the United States would be prepared also to suspend nuclear weapons tests on a year-by-year basis subject to determination at the start of each year that:

(A) The agreed inspection system is installed and working effectively; and

(B) Satisfactory progress is being made in reaching agreement on and implementing major substantial arms control measures such as the United States has long sought."

Cost of Living Sets New High During July

Washington—(AP)—The government reported today the cost of living in July set another record high. Its consumer price index rose two-tenths of 1 per cent to 123.9.

The 1947-49 average is 100 on the index. Advances in transportation, food and medical care costs were chiefly responsible for the July rise.

The index has gone up in 21 of the last 23 months. There has been no decline since August, 1956.

Ewan Clague, commissioner of labor statistics predicted little change in the general cost of living for the next several months.

He said food prices will continue down but the advent of new fall clothing and then new model automobiles, both expected to cost more, will have the effect of offsetting a drop in food prices.

De Gaulle, Adenauer To Meet Next Month

Bonn, Germany—(AP)—A German spokesman confirmed today that French Premier Charles de Gaulle and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer will meet Sept. 14.

They will get together for the first time at De Gaulle's home in Colombey-Les-Deux-Eglises, about 150 miles east of Paris, a government spokesman told a news conference.

Foreign Ministers Heinrich von Brentano of West Germany and Maurice Couve de Murville of France will be present.

No Polio Reported in Chicago at Mid-August

Chicago—(AP)—For the first time in more than 45 years, not a single case of polio has been reported in Chicago by mid-August and health officials credit the city's extensive program of Salk vaccine inoculations.

Strike Wave Slows Work On '59 Models

Detroit—(AP)—The auto industry is being hampered by a wave of strikes which have idled some 5,500 workers and curtailed production of the first 1959 models rolling off some assembly lines.

Walkouts have hit plants of all the big three auto makers this week.

Workers struck at five locations in Michigan, Ohio and Illinois in the worst outbreak of trouble since contracts between the manufacturers and the United Auto Workers expired last Memorial Day weekend.

A Chrysler spokesman said a strike of 330 employees at its key stamping plant in Twinsburg, Ohio, may slow down production of all of Chrysler's 1959 models. The Twinsburg dispute was touched off when the company fired a UAW shop committeeman for ordering 200 workers to refuse overtime work.

GM Plant
General Motors was the target for a strike of 70 workers at its Buick engine plant in Flint, Mich., idling some 1,400 employees. The walkout was staged over the same issue—the scheduling of overtime while other workers are without jobs.

Another GM plant was closed in Mansfield, Ohio, where die setters walked off their jobs and idled another 1,400 at the Fisher body works.

Ford's stamping plant at Chicago Heights, Ill., was hit by a walkout of 147 die setters Wednesday night and the operation was shut down when the work force of 1,050 failed to show up. The company said pending disciplinary action touched off the strike.

Warn Wives Not to Disrupt Maneuvers

Berlin—(AP)—Communist East Germany has sternly warned army officers to insure that their wives don't interfere with night maneuvers.

The army newspaper Volksarmee reported the case of some officers' wives at one post who tampered with their doorbells so their husbands could not be summoned for night exercises. "This example shows what can come to pass," said the newspaper, "when officers do not see to it their wives get a socialist education through party work."

AFL-CIO to Back Auto Workers if They Strike

Executive Council Says Big Producers
Failed to Bargain in Good Faith

BY NORMAN WALKER

Forest Park, Pa., (AP)—The AFL-CIO has decided to throw its financial and manpower resources behind Walter Reuther's United Auto Workers union in event of a motor industry strike.

The federation's ruling executive council yesterday created a seven man committee of its members to "give practical support organizationally and financially to the UAW" if an auto strike develops.

A statement adopted unanimously by the AFL-CIO executive council said General Motors, Ford and Chrysler have refused to bargain in good faith on wage and other demands raised by Reuther's UAW in five months of bargaining.

"The UAW is continuing its efforts to arrive at an equitable settlement without a strike," the council statement said. "But time is running out, and so is the patience of the workers."

Named to Committee
Named to the AFL-CIO's UAW aid committee were labor union heads George Harrison, James B. Carey, David Dubinsky, Dave McDonald, Albert Hayes, Joseph Beirne and Joseph Keenan. They represent rail, steel, clothing, electrical and other types of workers.

The UAW help was voted as the AFL-CIO chiefs wound up a week-long session here at a

Hope Talks Will Halt Fishing War

London—(AP)—Diplomats were hopeful today that talks going on in Paris might work out a last-minute compromise to avoid a fishing war between Britain and Iceland.

Neither of the North Atlantic Treaty allies has given any public indication of coming to terms in the dispute over the fishing waters off Iceland. But confidential discussions in Paris were reported progressing well.

Congress Reaches Homestretch in Rush for Adjournment This Week

BY PAUL DUKE

Washington—(AP)—The homestretch rush for adjournment was on in congress today.

The senate planned to meet 2 1/2 hours earlier than usual in an effort to clear its calendar of several prime items, including the $3 billion foreign aid money bill.

The house, having taken care of most major matters, considers a $6 billion appropriations measure to finance a score of government agencies.

Major Items

The target date for adjournment remained Saturday night. But first congress must dispose of these major pieces of legislation, among others: 1. Foreign aid—the house passed a bill calling for $3.1 billion in military and economic help to other nations this year. The senate appropriations committee, taking in the measure after eruption of the Middle East crisis, boosted the amount to $3.518 billion. But this still is $432 million below the amount originally requested by the president.

2. Debt ceiling—the administration, faced with mounting red ink spending, asked congress to increase the federal debt limit—now temporarily $280 billion—to $288 billion through June 30, 1960.

The house agreed to the request, but the senate finance committee voted to allow the $288 billion ceiling only through next June 30. The house and the senate committee also differed on how much the permanent ceiling—now $275 billion—should be boosted. The house voted for $285 billion; the senate committee for $283 billion.

3. Education—house and senate conferees agreed yesterday on a 4-year program to provide $900 million dollars in federal aid to educate the nation's young people, with emphasis on science and mathematics.

The compromise measure doesn't contain a college scholarship provision, which the senate had voted but which the house had turned down. It does provide $295 million dollars for student loans. The original senate program would have cost $1.3 billion and the house version $910 million.

The senate's first order of business today was a bill to extend for six months the government's authority to renegotiate defense contracts in an effort to see that industry doesn't make too much profit on them. The measure would extend the provision to cover contracts let by the new civilian space agency.

With a bit of good luck, Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Texas) hoped the senate could dispose of the renegotiation bill quickly and move on to the foreign aid measure.

Senate Probe May Take New Course

Study Link Between Teamster Organizer and Official of One of Biggest U. S. Trucking Concerns

Washington — (AP) — Senate committee members will delve next into links between Teamster leader James R. Hoffa and one of the nation's largest trucking concerns.

The 300-pound Teamster leader, yesterday completing two days of testimony before the senate investigating committee, from the comic to the serious.

James R. Hoffa, 44, once showed him nearly a quart of diamonds which he estimated were worth $75,000 to $100,000.

Mrs. Brougher, Baker's former sweetheart brought here from a Florida prison where she is serving a 15-year term for manslaughter, told the committee "the only kind of jewelry I had in my possession was legitimate jewelry."

Baker denied that he threatened to kill Mrs. Brougher's lawyer, George Everett. But Thomas L. Douglass, a Miami and Hyannis, Mass., jeweler, testified Baker once swore to kill Everett for losing Mrs. Brougher's appeal from a manslaughter conviction growing out of the fatal shooting of another of her boy friends in Miami.

French Official Shot in Lebanon

Beirut — (AP) — French Vice Consul Jean Gaspard was shot and seriously wounded late Thursday night while driving his car from Beirut International airport to the city.

American paratroopers usually use this road to and from the airport, where a paratroop unit is stationed. Armed gangs have often appeared in that region. Immediately after the shooting, police cordoned off the area and made an extensive search, but no arrests have been reported.

Practice Rocket Falls From Air Force Plane

Atlanta — (AP) — Six children were playing in a supply company's sand bin yesterday when they heard a "big noise in the air."

An object landed 50 feet from them, sending them scotching in all directions. Investigation showed it was a dummy practice rocket which had fallen from an F89D jet from Tyndall Air Force Base, Fla.

An air force spokesman said it was a 2.75 inch aircraft-type rocket. He said it carried no explosives and was strictly for dummy practice use. The rocket was about 4 feet long and weighed 18 pounds.

Heat Around the Royal Ice Tower Boss Confesses He Set Off Alarm to Test Crown Jewels Guard

London — (AP) — The boss at the Tower of London confessed today to setting off a burglar alarm to see how well England's crown jewels are being guarded.

"I'm delighted with the test," said Brig. Leslie Frederick Ethelbert Wieler, "it worked extremely well."

Brig. Wieler is resident governor of the ancient tower and the man responsible for safeguarding one of the world's most fabulous collections of jewels.

What's the Use

"Why didn't you warn us, sir, that it was only practice?" asked a Scotland Yard sleuth.

"What's the use of having a test," snapped the brigadier. "if it's not carried out properly?"

It was carried out properly, all right.

Shortly after breakfast the recorded voice on an automatic burglar alarm boomed out in Scotland Yard:

"Intruders have entered the jewel house at the Tower of London."

At the tower itself, alarm gongs clanged like engines racing to a 3-alarm fire.

Scots guards jumped to action posts at the tower. Scores of yeoman warders

15-Year-Old Kills Mother, Teen Sister

Flint, Mich. — (AP) — A mental examination probably will be requested today for a 15-year-old boy who killed his sister and widowed mother with a shotgun because he thought they would be "better off in heaven."

Police said the boy, Roger St. Pierre, told of killing his mother, Martha, 42, and his sister, Donna, 19, in their home yesterday and thought of killing himself but didn't know how he could avoid suffering.

Detective Lt. John Burton said a petition would be filed asking Probate Judge William Doran to take jurisdiction. He said it was probable the judge would ask psychiatrists to examine the boy.

Burton said if Roger is ruled competent to stand trial, he will ask the prosecutor to request probate court to waive jurisdiction "so he may be tried as an adult."

Roger told investigators his family was $1,500 in debt and said he was afraid they would starve to death.

He phoned police after the shootings and said "I've just shot my mother and my sister." Officers found Mrs. St. Pierre's body slumped on a couch in the living room and Donna sprawled in a hallway. Both had been hit by three shotgun blasts.

City Officials Keep Fingers Crossed for Collapsing Building

East St. Louis, Ill. — (AP) — Signs have been posted at three entrances of East St. Louis city hall declaring it "unsafe."

But City Building Commissioner Robert Keeley says they don't tell the whole story.

Keeley said last night the roof and third floor are in danger of collapsing and "the first floor could easily drop into the basement."

The 60-year-old building is infested with termites, the roof leaks and the walls of the basement are full of cracks.

In addition, Keeley says, "The building is full of vermin. The plumbing is in poor condition, the electrical system overloaded and the oil boilers are absolutely dangerous."

He hopes the building will last until Feb. 1, when city officials are to be moved into a remodeled building.

Leaves Door Open for Madagascar to Leave

De Gaulle Tells People They Don't Have to Wait for Their Independence

Tananarive, Madagascar — (AP) — Premier de Gaulle today bluntly and publicly told Madagascar and all other French colonies that they can leave the French union as independent nations before the end of 1958 if their peoples so desire.

Starting a swing through France's African territories, the World War II hero told Madagascans that the test of their desire will be their vote in the Sept. 28 referendum on his proposed new French constitution.

The referendum, he told a special joint session of the island's representative assembly, will offer all peoples in the French union a chance to decide their own future. It does not exclude any solution, "not even the most extreme which would be secession."

Majority Vote

A majority vote against the constitution, he continued, "will mean that Madagascar no longer wishes to be associated with France . . . and the French government will draw the appropriate conclusions."

The implication was that secession would mean an end to French financial support, essential to the economy of the big island off the southeast coast of Africa.

De Gaulle did not specifically include or exclude rebellious Algeria in his promise of independence if wanted. Algeria is technically a colony but a part of metropolitan France.

The French with much bloodshed put down a revolt in Madagascar in 1947 and admitted killing 30,000 of the four million islanders. Unofficial estimates of the toll ran much higher.

The assemblymen listened in attentive silence as De Gaulle outlined the changes he is proposing in the relationship between France and her territories overseas. He described this as a federal-style community in which each area would have internal self-government but the central authority under French leadership would handle defense, foreign relations and economic policies.

Promises of Change

Each overseas "state" could also decide, after bilateral negotiations to put justice, higher education, communications and transport in the hands of the government in Paris.

To the impatient nationalists De Gaulle held forth the promise of change. The new constitution, he said, will include a provision for revision. By mutual consent a member of the French union will be able to graduate into independence.

Assembly President Norbert Zafimahova, welcoming De Gaulle, said that Madagascar has no intention of separating from France but wants a special status whereby it could "associate freely" with France. Madagascar Premier Philibert Tsiranana last night told newsmen he thought Madagascar needed a 5-year apprenticeship period before independence.

Recorded Voice

The recorded voice through the yard was similar to hundreds of others in London. Instead of just clanging, it announced the address of the alarm.

Back at the tower the governor was happy.

"It's been a perfect morning," he said, "now excuse me, please. I must show a party of Middle East sheiks the jewels."

Denmark Bars U. S. A-Sub From Harbor

Express Fear of Radiation Peril In Cash of Crash

Copenhagen — (AP) — Denmark last night barred the U. S. atomic submarine Skate from visiting Copenhagen on the advice of the highest Danish nuclear authorities.

They expressed fear of radiation perils in case of a collision in the harbor.

But neighboring Norway promised an official welcome when the Skate docks tomorrow at Bergen, her first port of call after a crossing under the north Polar ice. The Skate will visit Oslo from Monday to Wednesday. Then it had planned to go on to Copenhagen.

Bar the Skate

A member of the Danish atomic energy commission told the Associated Press the commission chairman, famed Dr. Niels Bohr, concurred in the decision to bar the Skate. The great nuclear physicist was a member of the brain trust behind the first U. S. atomic bomb.

A Norwegian naval source called the Danish decision utter nonsense. But Norwegian health Director Karl Evang sent two health inspectors to try to contact the health officer of the Skate before the submarine docks at Bergen.

Evang said this step was planned long before the Danish decision was taken. He added that Norway simply wants "to know as much as possible so as to be able to take our precautions."

The Norwegian government decided to send defense Minister Nils Handal to Bergen to welcome the Skate as soon as the Copenhagen action became known.

The Norwegian defense ministry asked its research institute for an opinion on the possibility of danger. The institute's chief research officer said he had no information that would prompt the institute to advise against the Skate's visit.

Official spokesmen in The Hague and Bonn hastened to say there would be no objection to visits to Dutch and West German ports.

Danish Premier Hans C. Hansen acted on the recommendation of his atomic energy commission advisers, who warned against "disastrous consequences" in the case of an accident involving the vessel.

One commission member, who refused to be named, said the advice was given yesterday by some of the top nuclear experts running Denmark's atom station at Risoe, 30 miles from Copenhagen.

Supreme Court Rebuff Bill Killed by Single Vote in Senate Action

Measure Was Designed to Prevent The Striking Down of State Laws

Washington — (AP) — By a 1-vote margin, congress members who wanted to hand the supreme court a major legislative rebuff have been defeated.

The bitter battle reached a climax in the senate Thursday night with 41-40 vote killing a bill designed to prevent the court from striking down state laws not in direct conflict with federal laws on the same subject.

The vote came on a motion of Sen. John J. Carroll (D-Colo.) to send the measure back to the senate judiciary committee.

The house passed the bill last month by a 240-155 vote, ignoring warnings that President Eisenhower might veto it.

Federal Laws

The bill provided that federal laws should not supersede state laws in the same field unless congress expressly said so or unless there was a direct and irreconcilable conflict between them.

It also contained a provision specifically restoring to the states the right to enforce their own anti-subversive laws—a section designed to overcome the effect of the supreme court's decision in the Steve Nelson case.

Nelson, a Pennsylvania communist leader, was convicted under a state sedition law. The supreme court reversed the conviction on the ground that congress had assumed jurisdiction in the field by enacting the Smith act and other anti-communist laws.

The sedition laws of 42 states were invalidated by the ruling.

Shotgun Approach

Carroll argued that the bill intended to offset the decision would cause untold chaos in federal-state relations. Sen. Thomas C. Hennings (D-Mo.) called it "a shotgun approach" and said it came 100 years too late.

Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D-SC) countered that "all that's involved here is to let the states pass laws that are not in conflict with federal laws."

Before last night's vote, the senate was locked in dispute for three days over legislation aimed at recent decisions of the supreme court.

During the battle, it killed off by a 49-41 vote a bill to curb the review powers of the supreme court and to undo the effects of decisions in several communist cases.

The only bill passed during the 3-day struggle was a cut-down version of a house measure dealing with the issue of delays by police in arraigning suspects in federal criminal cases.

Reasonable Delay

As passed by the senate, the measure provides that confessions otherwise admissible in federal criminal trials shall not be barred solely because of "reasonable delay" in taking a suspect before a committee magistrate.

The house bill did not include the word reasonable. Opponents objected that the house version would permit police to detain suspects indefinitely for questioning.

A senate-house conference committee tried without success yesterday to reach a compromise.

90 Singing Teachers To Arrive at College

Two Concerts Open to Public During
5-Day Voice Workshop at Lawrence

Ninety teachers of singing are expected to arrive at Colman hall on the Lawrence college campus Sunday afternoon for a 5-day workshop sponsored by the National Association of Teachers of Singing.

Along with the 90 participants, will come a dozen "teacher - teachers" whose names are nationwide in pedagogical circles.

Two of the events of the week are open to the public. They are a pair of concerts presenting songs of Scotland by Cameron McClean, a leading voice teacher of Detroit, and an internationally known concert artist. The concerts are scheduled for 7:30 Monday and Tuesday evenings at the Lawrence conservatory of music.

Dr. McClean was born in Scotland and has studied singing with eminent teachers throughout Europe. His concert tours have taken him to 400 engagements in the United States alone, as well as through Great Britain, Canada and Mexico. He is an authority on the songs of Scotland and the Celtic songs of Ireland, was three times a gold medalist in Scottish competitions. In 1933, he was decorated by the British government with the Walter Scott gold medal. He has appeared with major symphonies and is well known for his interpretations of the title role in Mendelssohn's "Elijah." One of his concerts will be given over to the songs of the Hebrides, the other to music of the Highlands and Lowlands. There is no admission charge for the concerts.

Others on Faculty

Five other members of the workshop faculty are special guests coming from a distance.

Louis Diercks, professor of church and choral music at Ohio State university, is making his second appearance at the local NATS workshop. He has led his Ohio State Symphonic choir through Europe, where they won second place in the famed Welsh Eisteddfod and great critical acclaim throughout Germany and the Scandinavian countries.

Dr. Joel Carter, professor of voice at the University of North Carolina, received his vocal training in California and New York city and his degrees from San Jose State college and Stanford university. He has sung with the San Francisco Light Opera association and with the Intimate Opera players, a west coast touring organization in such operas as Schwanda, Der Freischutz and Peter Grimes.

He has been a regional governor of NATS for more than five years, and a speaker at many national conventions, as well as a regular contributor to scholarly magazines.

Ruth Miller Chamlee, a former soprano with the Metropolitan Opera, will come from California where she and her husband Mario Chamlee, one-time tenor at the same opera house, are on the faculty of the University of Southern California. Mrs. Chamlee was trained in Paris by the celebrated Sbriglia, and made her debut at the Met as Mimi in "La Boheme", singing opposite John McCormack. She has sung with the principal opera companies of America and she and her husband have done many joint concert tours. They are both on the staff of the music school at Aspen, Colo., during the summer.

Former Accompanist

Burton Garlinghouse, of the faculty of Baldwin - Wallace college, came to vocal pedagogy via the accompanist's bench, for his undergraduate work at Michigan was as a pianist. He accompanied extensively for Chicago voice teacher Theodore Harrison, and then studied vocal pedagogy at the University of Munich, Columbia, Oberlin and elsewhere. He has been guest lecturer at many American universities, directed the choir of the First Congregational church in Akron during the pastorate of minister-author Lloyd Douglass. This summer Garlinghouse has taught at the University of New Mexico. George Peabody College for Teachers in Nashville and the University of Idaho.

Harold Haugh, oratorio specialist from the University of Michigan, has sung with nearly all the major choral and orchestral organizations in the country during his 30 year career. He has 200 "Messiah" and 80 "St. Matthew Passion" performances to his credit as well as engagements at the famous Bach festivals of Bethlehem, Pa., and St. Louis and the Ann Arbor May festival. For many years he was soloist at the Brick church on Park avenue in New York city. He has also taught at Oberlin.

Other musicians from schools in this area to be on the faculty are LaVahn Maesch, James Ming and George Cox of Lawrence, John Thut of Augsburg college in Minneapolis, and Warren Wooldridge of the University of Wisconsin. Cox and Thut are co-chairmen of the conference.

Thorp Man Pays $35 Fine After Causing Accident

Kaukauna — Louis Badzinski, 50, Thorp, was fined $35 and costs when he pleaded guilty to a charge of inattentive driving, when arraigned before Oscar T. Jahns, justice of the peace, Wednesday afternoon.

Badzinski was arrested by Kaukauna police after being involved in an accident on Highway 41 in Kaukauna about 12:30 Wednesday afternoon. Badzinski was driving west on Highway 41 and struck the side of a car driven by Patrick Farrell, 19, route 2, Kaukauna, who was traveling east on Highway 41. Planning for Home Should Include Telephone Needs

Abundance of Outlets, Concealed Wiring Key Items, Builders Say

Home buyers want their houses to be modern tomorrow, too. Builders are demonstrating one facet of their careful advance planning by including provisions for telephone service that will adapt itself through the years to a family's needs.

An abundance of telephone outlets and wiring that's neatly concealed in the walls are attributes of many of the local display homes. They reflect not only present needs, but anticipated future requirements also.

Careful Planning

The home-buying public, working with forward-looking builders, is coming to expect this kind of careful planning. That's why current studies show that about one in every seven new homes in the United States is a telephone-planned home.

What is a telephone-planned home like?

Essentially it is one where telephone service is based on a careful evaluation of home layout.

Whether your own interest lies in buying a home, modernizing, or building a home, it would be well to take the advice of local builders and consider your future telephone requirements long in advance.

For instance, by planning ahead, you can avoid the problem of exposed telephone wires—running across areas where you won't want them—such as an interior masonry wall. Instead, all wiring can be concealed inside the walls during construction or remodeling. Plenty of phone outlets—for now and for the future—should be built in.

In planning for extension phones, if yours is like the majority of American families, you will give first priority to the bedside extension. The feeling of security that comes with such a phone is the biggest reward in most people's minds, but privacy, step-saving, and convenience in the event of illness are other important considerations. Where bedrooms are upstairs, such extensions assume primary importance.

When it comes to extensions in work areas such as kitchen, laundry, workshop, or garage, it makes sense to plan ahead for wall telephones. They are ideal in such places because they require no table or counter space.

Telephone Needs

In assessing your family's telephone needs, it is well to remember that situations are always changing. Those youngsters who now only think of dolls or toy trucks, for instance, will have other thoughts on their minds a few years hence. It's well to plan ahead to their wishes for privacy and convenience.

When it comes to the phone's actual location within a given room, it pays to keep your projected furniture groupings well in mind. And in this instance you might plan on an extra wall outlet or two to accommodate the rearrangements of furniture that the lady of the house is likely to desire.

Australia to Get New Parliament

Canberra, Australia.—Prime Minister Robert Menzies Wednesday announced that a new Australian parliament will be elected Nov. 22.

The present house of representatives, elected for three years on Dec. 10, 1955, and the half of the senate elected for six years on May 9, 1953, will be dissolved Oct. 14, Menzies said.

Menzies' liberal party has 57 seats in the present house and governs in a coalition with the 18-seat country party. The opposition labor party holds the other 49 seats. In the Senate, the liberals have 24 members, the country party 6, and the labor forces 30.

Lay Group Urges Hike in Pay for Clergymen

Indianapolis, Ind.—A meeting of the National Christian Men's fellowship, lay organization of Disciples of Christ churches, says clergy-men's salaries should be "at least equal to the average salary of company executives, doctors, lawyers and other professional men" in the church's home community.

Step by Step

Drips Drive You Daffy? Here's How to Fix 'Em

Drippy faucets are so easy to fix that no homeowner should put up with sleepless nights because of them, claims the National Association of Plumbing Contractors.

Here in a few simple steps, is how the homeowner can get a better night's sleep—and save money on his water and fuel bills at the same time.

The first step of course, is to turn off the water. In most modern homes, a "shut-off" valve for both the hot and cold water faucets is located just under the fixture where the supply line comes out of the wall.

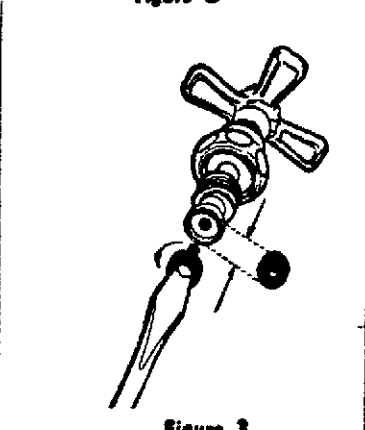

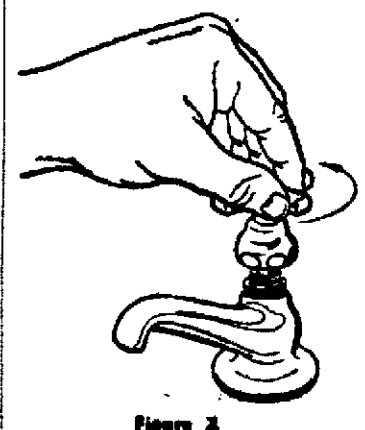

No "shut-off" valve? Then shut off the main water valve, usually located near the water meter.

Trying to take a faucet apart without turning the water off first produces some pretty spectacular results—and some mighty irritated housewives who have to mop up the mess!

After shutting off the water, open the drippy faucet far enough to relieve the pressure in the supply line. The second step (Figure 1) is to loosen the "bonnet nut" by turning it counter-clockwise with a "flat-jawed" wrench. To prevent marring the fixture, line the jaws of the wrench with leather or adhesive tape and turn gently.

For step three, gently turn the faucet handle in the "open" direction (Figure 2) until the valve stem comes out.

The "business end" of the faucet is a small brass cup containing a washer which is held in place with a brass screw. Remove the screw, as shown in step four (Figure 3), and replace the worn washer with one exactly the same size.

Finally, replace the faucet handle the same way you removed it, being careful to tighten the "bonnet nut" firmly, but not forcefully.

Restore water service by opening the "shut-off" valve, then recheck the faucet. If water oozes out by the handle, try tightening the "bonnet nut" another half turn. If that doesn't work, call your plumbing contractor—the packing is probably worn out, too.

If, after replacing the washer, the faucet still leaks, chances are that the valve seat is worn or corroded. Resurfacing the valve seat is a job for the plumbing contractor. It takes special equipment—and skills—to resurface the valve seat without permanently damaging the faucet.

Of course, the homeowner can save himself time and trouble—and the risk of damaging the dripping faucet—by calling his local plumbing contractor in the first place. For a very slight additional charge, the plumbing con-

New Qualities Seen in Wool Furnishings

Stain-Resistant, Mothproofed Items Now on the Market

Prospective home buyers should be on the look out for the newest wool-finished furnishings which feature two new qualities never before credited to wool.

These are a resistance to stains whether borne by water or oil and a repellency against moths. Both additives are the work of finishing mills.

Spilled Drinks

Newest is the development called "Scotchgard", a stain-resistant finish used to protect against spilled drinks, food, cosmetics and all water-based liquids. No more milk stains, liquor rings and oily food marks will be seen on the beautiful wools on which this stain-repellent is used.

"Mittin mothproofed" is the durable mothproofing process that now assures complete protection against moths. It is dyed-in-the-wool in a similar application to that of "Scotchgard" and will not wash or dry clean out. Both are odorless and colorless applications "Scotchgard" and "Mittin" will last for the life of the upholstered furniture wool to which they are applied.

More Practical

Wool has been a favored upholstery covering on imported and contemporary furniture for years, but has never been used in great quantities. With the advent of these new finishes wool will become more practical for home furnishing. A natural resistance toward wrinkling, coolness in summer months, and a warmth during the winter are the advantages of this natural fiber. Wool's affinity for dyes, taking and keeping color beautifully, has been one of the reasons for the furniture designers use of fine wool fabrics. The necessary texture and bulk needed to give surface interest to contemporary modern furniture is achieved in hand or an power woven wools.

Today wool upholstery coverings are attractive, practical and economical enough for use by the most active family.

Gambling Advocate Wins in Idaho Primary

Boise, Idaho.—A Lumberman who favors revival of legalized gambling in Idaho has emerged as the Democratic candidate for governor, winner in one of the closest primary contests in state history.

State Sen. A. M. Derr of Clark Fork captured the Democratic nomination by 133 votes from State Sen. H. Max Hanson of Fairfield, who opposed his gambling platform.

tractor will replace the washers in all the faucets in the home and check the valve seats at the same time.

A little drip can waste a surprising amount of water—as much as 7,500 gallons a year. If the drip is from the hot water faucet, a substantial part of the homeowner's fuel bill is also going down the drain.

If one faucet starts leaking, others are sure to follow. By having all washers replaced at the same time by his local plumbing contractor, the homeowner can save himself the cost of additional service calls.

HOT WATER HEAT BY NATIONAL-U.S. IS

the Investment that Pays Big Dividends

Whether you are building a new home or remodeling, your new heating plant is an investment that should be planned! With a "lifetime" National-U.S. hot water system you get:

- UNIFORM COMFORT
Only hot water heat maintains steady, comfortable indoor temperatures, regardless of outside weather.
- MODERN DECOR
National-U.S. hot water systems give you a choice of modern heat-distributing units—baseboard, convectors, radiators or radiant panels.
- EXTRA SPACE
The new National-U.S. boilers convert the old "furnace room" into a playroom or utility room. Units are eye-appealing, factory-assembled.
- CLEANER AIR
Modern hot water heating makes you comfortable by blending radiant and gently convected heat, not by blowing hot air and dust around the house.
- CONSTANT HOT WATER
No need for a bulky, expensive separate hot water heater when you have a National-U.S. system. Winter and summer, you can get ample domestic hot water automatically and economically.
- ECONOMICAL OPERATION
Modern National-U.S. hot water heating costs little more than the cheapest furnaces, but its long trouble-free service makes it cost much less per year!

Plan for the future. Talk over your heating problems with us.

Torrents Flood Northern Italy

Domodossola, Italy. — (AP) — Torrential rains fell in northern Italy again today, causing floods and landslides and arousing tourists.
At Bognanco, a health resort town, about 2,000 tourists, residents and patients at the local baths were marooned by flooded roads.
Bognanco is near San Giovanni, tiny hamlet where a devastating cloudburst caused landslides that killed 13 persons two days ago.
Mountaineers were able to make their way into Bognanco with supplies and there was no danger of food shortage.
Engineers estimated about 200 automobiles, most of them owned by tourists, will be unable to leave Bognanco for at least 40 days—time needed to restore the roads.

tion in the exercise of its policy-making role.
"We are not alone in our view that the court, in many cases arising under the fourteenth amendment, has assumed what seem to us primarily legislative powers. . . .
"It has long been an American boast that we have a government of laws and not of men. We believe that any study of recent decisions of the supreme court will raise at least considerable doubt as to the validity of that boast. We find first that, in constitutional cases, unanimous decisions are comparative rarities and that multiple opinions, concurring or dissenting, are common occurrences.
"Frequent Divisions
"We find next that divisions in result on a 5-to-4 basis are quite frequent. We find further that, on some occasions, a majority of the court cannot be mustered in support of any one opinion and that the result of a given case may come from the divergent views of individual justices who happen to unite on one outcome or the other of the case before the court. . . .
" . . . It seems strange that, under a constitutional doctrine which requires all others to recognize the supreme court's rulings on constitutional questions as binding adjudications of the meaning and application of the constitution, the court itself has so frequently overturned its own decisions thereon, after the lapse of periods varying from 1 year to 75, or even 95 years. . . .
"These frequent differences and occasional overrulings of prior decisions in constitutional cases cause us grave concern as to whether individual views as to what is wise or desirable do not unconsciously override a more dispassionate consideration of what is or is not constitutionally warranted.

Stick to Judicial
"It is our earnest hope that we respectfully express, that that great court exercise to the full its power of judicial firm — restraint by adhering strictly to its jurisdiction, and by eschewing, so far as possible, the exercise of essentially legislative powers when it is called upon to decide questions involving the validity of state action, whether it deems such action wise or unwise."
The ten chief justices declare, moreover, that at times the supreme court justices seem to "manifest an impatience with the slow workings of our federal system" and an unwillingness to wait for congress "to make clear its intention to exercise the powers conferred upon it by the constitution."
This is a scathing rebuke of the present supreme court, though the criticism does go back in some instances to previous personnel as well. There can be no doubt that many men of the highest judicial competence in America have begun to question whether the attitude of the present court is not really legislative instead of judicial.

The president said U. S. negotiators will be ready by Oct. 31 to open negotiations with Russia and perhaps other communist bloc countries, together with Western allies of the United States.

summer camp in the Pocono mountains.
Major action in the sessions was to isolate the ousted Teamsters union further from the rest of organized labor and to move against alleged corrupt conditions in other unions, among them the carpenters, restaurant workers and butcher unions.

Blast President
Another council statement yesterday blasted President Eisenhower in the strongest terms yet used by the labor leaders against him.
Accusing Eisenhower of "political chicanery," they blamed the administration for the death in the house of a senate — passed labor control bill they had backed.

The AFL-CIO leaders said the administration allied itself with what they called "reactionary businessmen and corrupt Teamsters" to kill the bill sponsored by Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) and Irving M. Ives (R-NY).

Eisenhower, in calling Wednesday for a labor bill along the lines he had proposed in January, said the Kennedy — Ives measure wasn't strong enough to combat corruption in labor unions and protect the rights of workers.

"The alleged reasons given by the president for this politically inspired action do not stand the test of common sense," said the AFL-CIO statement, adopted after Secretary of Labor Mitchell tried in a personal visit to sell the federation leaders on Eisenhower's views.

The council decided to hold its next two quarterly meetings in Washington, in November and February, and to hold the next biennial federation in San Francisco on Sept. 17, 1959.

term as assembly president has been mentioned as a possible choice for the post of U.N. ambassador-reporter to Jordan, to check on attempts from outside to overthrow King Hussein. The Hashemite kingdom has refused to accept either U.N. observers or a U.N. armed force on its soil.

Mostly Rewrite
Like Russia, Norway withdrew its veto-supported resolution. It also gave Hamarskjold the task of working out a Middle East peace settlement but skirted any direct demand for troop withdrawals.

Aside from the specific mention of troop withdrawal, the Arab resolution actually was largely a rewrite of the Norwegian plan. Western diplomats believed the Arabs decided to forget personal differences and work up their own proposal rather than have it appear that a settlement had been imposed upon them.

Reliable sources said Mahmoud Fawzi, veteran foreign minister of the United Arab Republic, played a key role in drawing up the Arab plan. Fawzi kept in close touch with the United States, Britain and Norway while the Arab resolution was being formulated.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge told reporters after the vote that he thought the emergency session achieved more than the summit meeting originally proposed by Soviet Premier Khrushchev could have.

"The success of this session was achieved in large measure by the presence of the Arabs and other small na-

South Koreans Ambush North Korean Agents In Offshore Gun Battle

Seoul — (AP) — South Korean police said they successfully ambushed a communist landing party last night and killed three North Korean agents in a blazing offshore gun battle.

The police said they sank the communists' motorboat and captured a fourth North Korean operative, two rifles, several hand grenades and other items. They added there were no South Korean casualties.

The ambush occurred off Haenam, at the southwest tip of Korea. The police said they learned of the landing attempt in advance and set their trap.

Marathon County Ends Inquiry Into Hospital In Accepting Funds

Wausau — (AP) — Marathon county board has closed an inquiry into management of the county home and hospital by accepting $1,750 from the firm that supplied the bond for the former superintendent.

The inquiry was opened last September following published charges of mistreatment of patients and misuse of county property. The late Leonard F. Scott served as superintendent during the period investigated by the board.

The funds were accepted from the United States Fidelity and Guarantee company. A resolution covering the transaction said: "In the course of the investigation certain discoveries were made which indicated possible misappropriation of funds belonging to Marathon county."

America's 'Unpopularity'

We suppose it was only a few months, or perhaps even days, after the inauguration of George Washington as our first president that critics of his administration began crying that his policies were "losing us friends abroad." This charge that policies the critic doesn't like are causing people in other countries to turn against us has been rife in our politics for a long time, practically since the beginning of the republic. Jefferson, Madison, Jackson, Polk, Lincoln, Theodore Roosevelt and Wilson, among others, had it hurled at them.

In recent years as the world has shrunk and our contacts with and dependence on the peoples of other lands have increased sharply this cry has been raised more often and has more meaning. The Republicans belabored FDR and Harry Truman with it, and since 1952 the Democrats have made it almost a standard leitmotif in their attacks on the current administration.

With all the hand-wringing that has taken place on this subject one would think that by now America would have no friends left in the world. But it seems we have. Every time a crucial vote is taken in the United Nations the free nations have rallied round our standard; we have yet to lose such a vote. We are the only permanent member of the Security Council that has not yet felt it necessary to use the veto; we can always count on a majority voting with us, as in the recent Middle East debate in which Russia found herself casting the lone vote against us. This despite all the talk during the previous week about our friends turning against us because of our intervention in Lebanon.

The Soviet Union for at least three decades has utilized every device it could think of — and it invented a few new ones — to bring other nations to its side. It spent untold sums and devoted the lives of thousands of its best people to building up communist parties in other countries; later on it joined popular fronts and made slick appeals to the masses and infiltrated labor unions and a host of other organizations throughout the world; more recently it has offered economic and technical aid plus military help to underdeveloped nations. Yet in so simple a test of its prestige and influence as a vote in the United Nations the only countries it can really count on are those it has enslaved through military conquest.

What really constitutes popularity? We have no doubt that a great many people both in highly developed countries like those in Western Europe and in the backward nations of South America, Asia and Africa grumble a good deal about rich Uncle Sam and the way he goes about things. A nation, like an individual, that has acquired wealth and power and influence in the world cannot expect to be popular in the sense of being huzzahed and patted on the back every time it changes direction or issues a pronouncement. This has always been true but it is even more true in a day when all the world's smaller nations tremble lest they be destroyed in a war brought on by the rivalry of the great atomic powers. In such a time neither the U. S. nor the USSR can expect to be the belle of the ball in anybody's chancelleries except their own.

We do not mean to say that we should stick our nose in the air and pay no attention to what our allies and the neutrals and even our enemies have to say about us. We should pay close attention to what they say; we should always have our finger on the pulse of popular opinion throughout the world for in the long run it is the loyalty to our ideals of millions of people on all the continents that will decide the war between freedom and dictatorship. But that does not mean that we must tremble every time one of our ambassadors reports that a regime or a populace in some part of the world is angry at us, or that our president and secretary of state should feel it necessary to pull in their horns or even abandon sound policies simply because the political opposition here at home pulls out the old bromide that we are "losing friends." A friend is not someone who constantly fawns on you — it is someone on whom you can rely when the chips are down.

Whipping a Dead Horse

Democratic candidates for state office have been filling the air lately with anguished declarations of their undying opposition to so-called "right to work" legislation threats supposed to abound in Wisconsin.

We suppose that some such postures are necessary, in the great game of politics as it is played by the contemporary Democratic liberals. Democratic nominations are pretty well decided in the industrial cities of the state, where the union vote is manifestly strongest and where the political action captains of the labor organizations expend their energies and their money. There is also the fact, sometimes forgotten, that Mr. Schultz of the Wisconsin AFL-CIO a couple of years ago, when he was boss of the independent CIO of the state, raised a campaign kitty to "fight" such legislation. Since the legislation never turned up in the legislature, it should follow that the campaign chest remains in its pristine wholeness. It must be an attractive thing to that Democrat who is short of campaign funds.

But for that voter who may not be privy to these private matters in the politics of the liberals, the reiteration of these battle cries may be misleading. He may be tempted to believe that there is, actually and in truth, a serious chance to make illegal the closed or the union shop, as they are known in labor-management parlance.

Palace for Sinbad

Americans, stunned at the revolution in Iraq and the murder of the king and those close to him, have been used to hearing what an enlightened monarch King Faisal was. Certainly his reforms did far more for the Arabian peasant in a material way than has Nasser's bombastic United Arab Republic. Reclamation projects, agricultural assistance and work programs helped to raise the Iraqi standard of living.

But one thing Americans heard practically nothing about was the $18 million palace which King Faisal was building. And we must wonder how many of the American taxpayers' dollars went into this project which meant a lot to the monarch but little to the cause of the West.

The new revolutionary "republic" has announced that it will complete the palace (with American funds?) but that a lot of the frills will be dropped. The partially finished kidney-shaped swimming pool with underwater lighting won't be filled with water (at least until later), the outdoor theater won't run any films, the artificial hill from which the king planned to review his troops will be abandoned. There will be no tennis courts or Italian gardens or special quarters for staffs of European diplomats. The new regime, of course, has the people in mind, at least for the record.

There are some parts of the palace that must be finished, however. The 15-foot crystal chandeliers, still in their packing crates from England, can hardly be returned since there are so few palaces being built nowadays. The bronze light switches, utilitarian but rather ordinary, will be replaced by silver as planned. The whole mammoth building will be air-conditioned. In fact the new regime plans to spend only about $7 millions more in completing the project instead of $9 millions outlined by the late king.

Americans, used to gadgets and plenty in the refrigerator, must still be appalled at the things we buy for these oil rich lands where starvation, slavery and sudden death are commonplace.

Tax Office Advertising Ruling Creates Censorship by Taxation

From The Chicago Daily News

A certain manufacturer buys advertising space to re-print newspaper editorials and other material that he deems interesting or important. Another firm's advertising consists largely of color reproductions of modern art. Both of these concerns presumably think they get their money's worth out of the reader interest they create.

The electric power companies have been buying advertising space to oppose the spread of power systems financed by public funds. These ads support the principle of private enterprise, and it cannot be denied that the private companies would sell less electricity if the publicly owned systems spread much more widely.

Nevertheless, the Internal Revenue service has ruled that the purchase of such advertising by the power companies is propaganda and will not be considered "ordinary and reasonable" expense for deduction from taxes.

If arguing for private enterprise is propaganda, then so is arguing for highway safety, church attendance, or even patriotism. Any business concern which concluded that its interest was served by promoting any of these would be entitled to consider the advertising a business expense.

Yet the IRS has undertaken a form of censorship by taxation. We do not know that any business firm in the TVA area has bought advertising space to extol the virtues of public power, or any other brand of socialism. But if its managers thought they could make friends and sell widgets by so doing, it surely ought to be considered a legitimate business practice.

Directors and stockholders have a remedy at hand to stop it, if in their judgment the management is making a bad investment. Business is conducted to make a profit, and any money spent to increase that profit is a business expense.

for tax purposes, even if it fails of its purpose.

It looks to us as if the IRS had succumbed to the bureaucratic zeal to substitute its judgment for that of corporate management, and has mistaken its will for public policy. We trust the courts will knock this aberration in the head before tax penalties get attached to praising the spirit of Christmas or the Fourth of July.

Court House Grounds Look Like a Dump

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Through the Post-Crescent's "People's Forum" I would like to extend to the taxpayers of Outagamie county, an invitation to visit their county courthouse grounds. They will view an outstanding collection of weeds, broken bottles and scraps of refuse that can't be equalled in any other county grounds of this state.

The weeds are of such quality and size that it would be best to leave small children in automobiles rather than run the risk of having them wander too close and be devoured. Some shrubs have given up the ghost to the more favored weeds. I must say the grass is making a valiant stand, but it looks like a losing battle.

To the women who might care to walk the area in high heels — beware — broken glass, stones and sticks await on the sidewalks to twist your ankles.

As for broken bottle collectors — you had better ask permission before you pick up any pieces. Those pieces have been there so long that the county can claim every silver by reason of squatters rights.

The only thing missing on the grounds is a sign "County Dump."

Looking Backward

Railroad Extension Completed

79 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of Aug. 23, 1879.

The Northern extension of the Milwaukee Lake Shore and Western railroad has recently been completed to Marion, a point seven miles from Clintonville and 143 miles from Milwaukee. The regular trains commenced running over this new extension on Monday last. Freight and passengers are now taken to the above mentioned point.

25 YEARS AGO
Friday, Aug. 18, 1933
John Burke of Appleton was named appraiser and Harry McAndrews of Kaukauna, attorney, of the Federal Home Loan organization in Outagamie county.

Four members of the Appleton Fire department were promoted. J. F. McLaughlin, named a captain on May 1 after retirement of several captains, was appointed second assistant chief to succeed Emil Schwahn, named first assistant chief. Chris Deligen and Walter Smith were promoted to captains, one to succeed McLaughlin, the other to fill a vacancy. Alfred Arnold was named assistant mechanic.

Appleton's first water carnival in 15 years was to be held Sunday and Monday Sept. 3 and 4 under auspices of the Riverview Boat club. Mayor Goodland appointed Aldermen C. O. Thompson, George Richard and Henry Tuttrup as the council committee to confer with the school board on the proposal made by W. H. Kreiss, president of the school board. Mr. Kreiss suggested that a grade school instead of a high school be built at the present time, the building to accommodate the sophomore class at the high school until it became possible to build a new high school.

Mrs. George Schmidt, Appleton, was elected grand junior of Pythian Sisters of the state of Wisconsin at the annual convention.

10 YEARS AGO
Friday, Aug. 20, 1948
Edward F. Rennicke, Kaukauna, was to be in charge of the Outagamie county draft board office as its clerk, he was informed by state selective service headquarters.

Under the Capitol Dome

Madison Wracked by Expansion Squabble

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — As the capital city of the commonwealth, Madison and its community problems perhaps have more interest to the state at large than is accorded to the local affairs of a comparable and worthy cities elsewhere. For that reason an altogether unique local argument about Madison's future growth and development may command some interest beyond the municipal boundaries.

Wyngaard

Like many other progressive communities, the capital city has organized an industrial development corporation for the express purpose of encouraging the broadening of the city's industrial and business base and to spread simultaneously a local tax burden that is becoming painful.

In most localities such an enterprise would have the undivided support of the community's leaders, real and self-chosen. But not in the Wisconsin capital city. There is a real resistance, expressed in such flagrant and candid terms as to make a first-rate community controversy.

THE ARGUMENT

The basis of the opposition ought to be interesting to the rest of the state also, since it involves tax dollars statewide.

With a candor that contains no hint of shame or self-consciousness, the opposition holds that government is Madison's main reliance economically and that it is preferable as an income base to the industrial development that is the goal and the necessary destiny of other aspiring cities.

Some of this viewpoint comes from the city's acknowledged "liberal" leadership, as political definitions are tested nowadays, although it contains a hint of inverted snobbery that might give some of them pause.

The other day a leader of the opposition was able to find a University of Wisconsin economist to decry the "hysteria" about growth for the sake of growth in the capital city, and to repeat the view that Madison has nothing to worry about because its principal economic foundation, government, has grown steadily and shows no sign that growth is going to be halted.

Some of these critics also complain that the state has not done right by Madison lately in allocating tax dollars, as in the current program of decentralizing higher educational opportunity by building up the state colleges and the branch university in metropolitan Milwaukee.

Implicit in that assertion is the idea that Madison should have all of the benefit of the state's higher education tax dollars, without regard to the welfare of the students or their families.

THE RESULT

Aside from the curious revelations in this dispute, the result cannot be doubted. There is a nostalgia for the smaller, more neighborly, more comfortable and quiet Madison that used to be. But Madison will continue to change and to grow.

Indeed, Madison has already changed so fundamentally that many a former university student gasps in astonishment as he returns to the town. This Madisonian doesn't qualify as an old settler, but the city's population has nearly tripled during his own residence here. The representative citizen here comes from somewhere else. The city is widely known as a seat of government, but it has more industrialization than all except a very few other Wisconsin population centers.

Government, indeed, will probably continue to grow. But even exclusive reliance on tax-financed payrolls won't assure the Madison of old. Government alone, at its present and perhaps inevitable future rate of growth, will make of the capital a bigger town than its sentimental old timers would have.

Immodesty Deters Fight For Clean Life

Editor, Post-Crescent:

In last Friday's "Peoples Forum" Mrs. Gerald Meyer was correct in stating that the base of morality is in the home and church; but with immodesty on public display every day very soon both children and adults will think that it is alright to be immodest. In this materialistic age we are getting so spoiled that self-discipline and will power are almost a thing of the past. Forbidden things are always more tempting than things which are not forbidden so why make it more difficult by putting so much immodesty on display? Why flirt with the devil?

Mrs. Meyer was also correct in saying that if movies and books were to be censored so would magazines and newspapers and girls would have to wear more clothes. There are also a lot of other sins just as bad as impurity that we mothers could raise a fuss about. So the fight for modesty seems to be a losing battle. I suppose if people like to tell and listen to off-color jokes, see immodest movies and read filthy books that is their business. But as long as I believe that there is a heaven and hell after this life on earth, as I presume many of you readers do, I think it is a lot easier to lead a good clean life if a few of the temptations are eliminated.

Seeing that we cannot change other people it is up to the individual parents to watch over their own children and try to ignore those who thrive on immodesty. Blessed are the clean of heart for they shall see God.

Urban Study Won't Solve City Problems

From The Municipality Magazine

It appears extremely doubtful that the state-wide study will result in very thorough investigation of many of the important problems confronting Wisconsin cities and villages.

This is unfortunate but it does not reflect on the members of the committee who are making a valiant and sincere effort to accomplish what they can within the limited facilities and time allotted to them. With limited staff and less than a year in which to work, not too much can be expected.

The urban problems committee is making a concerted effort to obtain assistance from all available sources. It has enlisted the aid of individuals from the university, local governments and the league. It is hoped that with such assistance some important, though limited, studies can be completed prior to the meeting of the 1959 legislature.

Problems of urban growth will be with us for many years to come, and we trust that future legislatures will provide adequate means for the sound research so sorely needed if their solutions are to be found.

Appleton Civic Ballet in Production Since 1943

BY SUSAN DILDAY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The Appleton Civic Ballet was founded in 1943 by Mrs. Robert Lemke, Appleton, to give aspiring dancers experience working in a large dance troupe, ever and above work done for dance recitals.

The organization is non-profit, self supporting, and once did its own concerts, but now works in conjunction with a dance recital.

When the civic ballet began, it had 12 people in the senior ballet and 12 people in the junior ballet. One afternoon and evening performance is given each May.

In the early stages of its creation, the company had male dancers. Mr. Lemke was dancer with the group for a number of years. With in the last year the policy has changed and only women appear in the programs.

Included in the repertoire are "Swan Lake," "Sleeping Beauty," "Coppelia," "Gaité Parisienne" and "Le Beau Danube."

2 Ballet Groups

The senior ballet is open to girls 13 years and older, in past years, has included married women and college and career girls in the Fox Cities area. The senior group now numbers between 20 and 25 members.

The junior ballet is limited to 12 members, 13 years or younger. A promising ballerina may audition in June for either the junior or senior troupe, depending on her age. A girl does not have to be in the junior ballet prior to her entering the senior group.

To be a member of the junior troupe the young girl usually has had at least two years ballet experience, which does not necessarily include toe dancing. Four years of dancing for the youngsters will, perhaps, include toe work. However, some girls have passed the try-outs with little or no experience, but have a native ability in the art.

Senior Corps

Junior girls automatically enter the senior division when they become of age. As is the case with the younger girls, those auditioning for the advanced ballet will have a range of experience. Acceptance depends on the technique, the adeptness and the in-born or trained talent of the ballerina.

Solo parts are given to senior ballet members. The more dancing experience, the greater the opportunity to do solo work. Junior girls participate in concerts in the corps de ballet.

Members of the civic ballet study dancing throughout the year in private lessons, plus rehearsing every Monday night for two to three hours.

Ballet Choice

The choice of a ballet to fit the means of the troupe and to meet the public demands is a difficult one. A ballet which tells a story is usually selected since it is understandable and more appreciated by the great number of children in the audience.

The classical story ballet like "Swan Lake" is typified by flowing white costumes, and the character story ballet, like "Gaité Parisienne," has bright, colorful costumes.

Some ballets are both character and classical in construction, such as "Nutcracker."

Patrick Dulin, both of Janesville.

The newlyweds were honored at a breakfast at Five Acres restaurant, Janesville, and at a reception at the Janesville Elks lodge. Later, the pair left for a honeymoon in northern Wisconsin.

Mr. Fox is employed as a letter carrier by the Janesville Post Office.

er Suite." In contrast to the story-ballet, are those referred to as technical ballets, which are an interpretation or pattern of dance set to music and do not tell a story. In both types of ballet the flat soft ballet slipper and the toe shoe are used.

Backstage Work

After the ballet has been selected the hard work begins. Costumes are made by the girls and their mothers and materials are ordered and designs adapted from those used by professional companies. The patterns are devised from basic ones, and girls use their own ideas in creating the finished products.

Mrs. Lemke does the choreography for the dance troupe, blocking out the story and dance patterns for production on the Appleton High school stage.

The basic, uncomplicated sets and scenery are done by the ballet members, a local art teacher or student, and interested Appleton residents. They are designed in Appleton but follow the structures used by professional companies. If the sets are too elaborate they are ordered from Chicago.

Lighting is done by the high school stage crew under the direction of Jack Burroughs, Appleton High school teacher. High school students do all stage crew work for the concert.

Apply Own Make-up

Ballet members are required to learn all details and techniques in applying grease make-up. The design and style of straight ballet or character make-up differs from the theatrical method. Mrs. Lemke teaches the senior ballet how to apply their own make-up, and those girls instruct the junior troupe.

With the limited time for rehearsals and the need for a permanent company orchestra, the civic ballet uses philharmonic orchestra recordings for all practice sessions and performances.

With the increased number of dancers, the behind-the-scenes work has become more involved and difficult. In 1957 the Appleton Civic Ballet produced the complicated "Nutcracker Suite" with Andrea Lou Cloak, Dolores Shea and Mr. Lemke, all of Appleton, taking the leads.

All-Female Cast

Last May they presented "Enchanted Sea," adaptable to an all-female cast. Mrs. Albert Lamb, Black Creek, danced the part of the pearl diver and the four young women in the photograph took the principle parts.

For many of the dancers, participation in the Appleton Civic Ballet offers an opportunity for recreational activity and the development of their particular talents.

Some Appleton residents have found the incentive through their ballet work to strive for the professional ranks. One graduate of the Appleton Civic Ballet, Miss Donna Beumont, is dancing in the Chicago production of "My Fair Lady."

DEAR ANN: Recently when walking through an alley on the way home from a bus-stop, I came upon a pile of discarded in the back of a neighbor's home. I spotted an article which struck me as being valuable.

By all means tell the neighbor about it and invite her to see how her "trash" looks in different surroundings. If she's reasonable and fair she'll compliment you on your imaginativeness—and probably kick herself all the way home!

DEAR ANN: My husband and I have been married 11 years. We are in our early 30's and get along beautifully. We own a lovely home and run a successful business. We both want desperately to have a family.

IF YOUR child rides a bike to school perhaps that invaluable vehicle should be checked by an expert before school starts. It may need oiling, tightening, a new handle grip. Many schools have a safety inspection and licensing session early in the fall, and your youngsters will want their bikes in good shape for it.

Not Enough Wall Space? Make It Do According to Plan The problem so often is not enough wall space, especially in new homes. How can furniture be arranged attractively in the wall-scarce room? Or how is it possible even to fit in enough of it to supply basic needs?

Best solutions, even reasonably workable solutions, are no guessing matter. It might not have been disastrous once upon a time to buy furniture in standard sizes and take a chance on their settling pleasantly enough in one room or another, but with new variety of furniture sizes and the many window walls, half-walls and big fireplaces, today's furniture must be bought according to plan. Careful plan, that makes the right decisions before the writing of the first check.

The plan must begin with evaluation of needs. For a living room, how many should seating provide for? Must at least one table be big enough to assist with the serving of refreshments or meals? Is one chest enough for put-away space, or will clutter creep in if there isn't more storage?

Brother Asks Theft Hearing

Pair Charged With Kidnaping, Robbing Bay Auto Salesman

Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — One of two Green Bay brothers charged with kidnaping and robbing an auto salesman asked for a preliminary hearing in municipal court Thursday. He and his brother are charged with kidnaping, armed robbery and auto theft in Green Bay Tuesday night.

Acting Municipal Judge Raymond Rahr set a Sept. 3 hearing for Gerald Sommers, 19, 112½ S. Broadway. Sommers was jailed when he couldn't post $5,000 bond.

Gerald's brother, Wesley, 27, partner in the armed robbery and flight in a stolen car, is in St. Vincent hospital. He was shot during his flight in a wooded area north of the Menominee Indian reservation. Arraignment of Wesley will be delayed until he has recovered from his wounds.

The Sommers are charged with forcing Louis Dietrich, 62, Green Bay auto salesman, to drive them into the country at gunpoint after accosting him at the California Car company, Green Bay. Police say the men forced Dietrich out of the auto, ordered him to hand over $11 from his wallet and drive his 1951 Cadillac convertible away.

Liz Taylor Files Suit in Todd's Death

New York — Actress Elizabeth Taylor has filed a $5 - million damage suit against three corporations, charging them with negligence in the plane crash which killed her husband, Mike Todd, and three others.

The action was filed in federal court on behalf of the actress and Todd's son, Mike Todd, Jr.

At the same time, Mrs. Marta Cohn, widow of Writer Art Cohn, who also died in the crash last March, asked damages of $1½ million.

The defendants are Ayer Lease Plan, Inc., described as the owner and operator of the plane; Trade-Ayer, Inc., and Michael Todd company, Inc., maintainers and controllers of the plane.

Officials at Ayer Lease plan and Trade-Ayer, both located at Linden Airport, Linden, N. J., did not immediately comment.

The twin - engine plane crashed in the Zuni mountains near Grants, N. M., March 22. In addition to Todd and Cohn, the victims were Pilot Bill Verner and Co-pilot Tom Barclay.

Miss Taylor's and young Todd's suit said Todd left a widow and two children and had been "gainfully working with a reasonable expectation of even greater earnings in the future."

"By virtue of his wrongful death, the survivors will be deprived of the deceased's future contributions to their support and of his services, guidance, comfort and society," the suit said.

Girl Dies in 150-Foot Fall Into Gorge

Mount Washington, Mass.

A teenagers' outing in Bash Bish State forest became tragedy yesterday when Eileen Reiter, 16, of The Bronx, N.Y., fell 150 feet to her death on a ledge.

Nola Zirin, 15, of Jericho, N.Y., narrowly escaped plunging into the 500-foot Bash Bish falls gorge after her companion. Clutching at Miss Reiter as she fell, Miss Zirin slipped off a narrow path 100 feet from the top of the gorge but managed to seize hold of brush and pull herself back.

The Reiter girl landed on a narrow water-filled ledge some 250 feet above the base. State police who climbed almost vertically to reach her fastened a rope around her and lowered the body to the bottom by stages.

The girls were in a party of six teenagers and two adults who came here from Camp Try-Woodie at Hyde Park, N. Y. Police said the pair apparently were climbing the gorge alone when the accident occurred.

Miss Zirin was in a state of shock when she returned to the base.

Two Short Plays

'Separate Tables' Ably Done By Stars of Peninsula Players

BY WILLIAM WEAVER

Post-Crescent News Service

Fish Creek — The Peninsula Players have entered the home stretch of the 1958 season with a production of Terence Rattigan's "Separate Tables."

The performance got off to a slow start and was a little spotty but there is every probability most of the defects will disappear with subsequent performances. In any case, what emerged was a spanking good play with some very good performances.

Actually "Separate Tables" is two short plays, sharing the same setting and many of the same characters — only the major roles differ. There is also a strong continuity of tone and purpose. Both plays deal intimately with loneliness and some of the less romantic and less pleasant aspects of love.

The central figures in the opening play, called "Table by the Window," are two persons whose marriage was broken up some 10 years before the time of the play by a vexatious and rather violent incompatibility despite their passionate and compulsive involvement with one another.

The second play, "Table Number Seven," examines the pitiable plight of two lonely, shy people whose dwindling lives have been distorted by over-bearing parents and a heartless world. Both plays demonstrate the virtues of courage and acceptance.

Ably Handled

The starring roles in both plays were ably handled by Jean Leslie and William Munchow, and both were good, though perhaps Miss Leslie was more so than her opposite in the first play. Munchow demonstrated here some tendency to sacrifice dramatic values on the altar of realism. Thus, while his insight was quite obviously what it should be, the brooding rather deliberate way in which this was projected slowed things down somewhat.

No such difficulty marred the second play of the evening, which came through with touching clarity. Miss Leslie was equally absorbing as the aging and rootless fashion model of "Table by the Window" and as the awkward, frustrated young old maid of "Table Number Seven." In the second play Munchow portrayed a neurotic retired army officer with full authority and control.

Highest honors among the supporting players must go to Miss Clare Scott, who played the hotel manager with admirable warmth and insight, though unfortunately some of the audience had difficulty hearing her at times. In smaller parts, Miss Maggie Magerstadt and Miss Jeanne Bolan were fine indeed. These two charming young ladies were transformed into quite believable old ladies not only by make-up and some inspired contributions from wardrobe, but also by solid action ability.

Thomas Koutsoukas again demonstrated his not inconsiderable talent for character roles. Lawrence Zerkel and Gail Kulie provided pleasant diversion as the young couple, and Miss Madeline Tourtolo was seen as Lady Matheson.

Kert Lundell's sets were as usual excellent, recreating deftly the worn and tawdry elegance of a British private hotel.

Dilettante Attends Concert, Leaves Pleased and Happy

BY RAY PAGEL

Post-Crescent News Service

Fish Creek — Maybe it helps but you really don't have to be an expert to enjoy such finer things in life like the Peninsula Music festival.

I should know. I'm a festival fan. So that is why I bravely volunteered to do this piece. Russ Widoe, the erudite gentleman who usually gets out these reviews, was tied up elsewhere and begged off.

The point of this essay is that a lot of people are missing out on pleasant entertainment by staying away from concerts. Not that the Peninsula Music festival suffers greatly. As usual the Gibraltar High school auditorium was close to packed Wednesday evening.

Dr. Thor Johnson, the friendly, energetic man who has been directing the festival in all of its six seasons, came up with a program of what is considered lighter music. Four composers were represented and in three cases the numbers were being played for the first time in the United States.

A tip: The concerts start on time. You step up to the window and get your tickets — $3 a head from a charming young lady who hopes you will have a good evening.

It's a good idea to spend another half dollar on a booklet of some 40 pages entitled "Peninsula Music Festival About Composers and Festival Personalities."

All-Girl Orchestra

For instance the book says a composer named Vivaldi whose number opened the program spent almost 40 years directing music in a boarding school for homeless girls in Venice. One of his achievements was an all-girl orchestra that played for many musically distinguished visitors.

Vivaldi's composition, one of the U.S. premieres Wednesday evening, was a concert in D minor for two flutes, two oboes, bassoon, two violins, and strings. What that all means is that Dr. Johnson had an opportunity here to feature several of the outstanding players in his orchestra.

The orchestra then went into music written by Emmanuel Chabrier, a Frenchman who, the program notes reveal, died in 1894 at 53.

Henri Thomas, another Frenchman, provided a divertimento for woodwind trio and strings.

Audience Reaction

Winding up the concert was a Sinfonietta in D Major for violin viola, violoncello and orchestra. Sidney Harth was the violinist. William Preucil was featured on the viola and John Ehrlich supplied the violoncello. All did fine. You could tell from the audience reaction.

This number also, a first time performance in this country, was written by Felix Weingartner, one of the greatest conductors of the 20th century. His Sinfonietta was published in 1936, just six years before his death.

You have two more chances to hear the festival music this year. At 8 o'clock Saturday evening the Philippine baritone Aurelio Estanslao will be featured and at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon Violinist Harth will be soloist.

Jingo Screens Jet Fighter Pilot Film

BY JINGO

"The Hunters," which opens Wednesday at Appleton's Rio theater, is a jet fighter pilot tale in the grand manner of better westerns.

Jingo and a flock of other newsmen and theater managers got an advance peek at the film Thursday in Chicago during a special screening.

Robert Mitchum is the steely-eyed, but pure-hearted jet gunman ("the ice man... the chopper... the cleaver," his associates call him). His winning duel with "The Crapshooter," North Korean MIG ace, was more exciting to Jingo than any of the classic western gun-fights.

The picture abounds in jet action and includes enough character studies of jet pilots to relieve the load on the zooming F-84s. In fact, Robert Wagner, as a jive-talking hot gunman, probably will be put down by the younger set as having pilfered the prize.

Unfortunately, the film also has a merger plot. Mitchum falls in love with his wingman's wife, May Britt, who wavers for a time. The triangle dissolves after Mitchum belly-lands behind lines to save the wingman, Lee Philips, and with Wagner drags the wounded flyer safely home.

The camera fades out as Mitchum, back to Miss Britt, eyes on the sky, figuratively busses his mechanical horse.

Summing up: The best of vapor trails and Wagner, with regrettable overtones.

Producer-Director Dick Powell and his charming wife, June Allyson, attended the screening, chatting with and posing for newsmen for 1 1/2 hours.

Powell will MC Ed Sullivan's United States air force show Sunday night, Aug. 31. He also reported that "Four Star Playhouse," the TV series he owns with Charles Boyer and David Niven, is spending less on westerns and more on comedy and mystery films.

The western, he said, has about run out of favor.

Jingo's Jewels: Roy Campanella, Dodger catcher seriously injured in an automobile accident, will be interviewed from his hospital bed on NBC-TV's "Today" show Wednesday. The record of the current congress will be appraised by some of its leaders in a special CBS-TV program at 6:30 tonight.

There'll be fewer models of television sets to choose from this fall, but they'll cost less, too — about $5 to $10 less each, manufacturers have announced.

Melvyn Douglas has been cast as Stalin for "The Plot to Kill Stalin," "Playhouse 90's" Sept. 25 presentation. Others in the cast, Eli Wallach, E. G. Marshall, Oscar Homolka, Luther Adler and Thomas Gomez, were announced earlier.

Brigitte Bardot and Frank Sinatra have settled on the split of the loot for "Paris by Night," picture they'll make together starting next May.

Twentieth Century-Fox has started plans to film three Edgar Allan Poe classics, "The Pit and the Pendulum," "The Tell Tale Heart" and "Murders in the Rue Morgue."

Art Carey plays a farmer who refuses to pay income taxes. Tony Randall the income tax agent who falls for the farmer's daughter and Debbie Reynolds the farmer's daughter in "The Darling Buds of May," upcoming MGM film.

Hildegard's hour-long show in Rio will be filmed in November for telecasting in September next year.

Sammy Davis, Jr., goes dramatic in "D. P.," episode in the new, "GE Theater" season.

Caseworker - Replaced at Apostolate

Eugene Gillis Takes Leave of Absence to Study

Menasha — Miss Eunice Lantow of Manitowoc will replace Eugene Gillis as caseworker of the Neenah-Menasha Apostolate, it was announced today. Gillis is taking a leave of absence to take advanced social work studies at St. Louis university. He has been caseworker since last December.

Miss Lantow received her master's degree in social work from the University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee, in June. Her bachelor of science degree in psychology was attained at Marquette university in 1956.

During the summer of 1958, Miss Lantow was a trainee at the Manitowoc County Child Guidance center. She also did field work with the Family Service agency at Racine and worked part time as a group leader at the Jewish Community center in Milwaukee.

She has had summer experience in both the Appleton and Menasha Apostolate offices and field work with the Catholic Social Welfare bureau of Milwaukee.

Clubs Listed

While attending Marquette, Miss Lantow was a member of the Student Psychological association, sociology club, and Delta Sigma Epsilon, a national social sorority. She was a member of the social work club and National Association of Social Workers at the University of Wisconsin.

Miss Lantow has specialized in child welfare and will confine her efforts to this field when she takes over as Neenah-Menasha caseworker on Sept. 1. Child welfare includes the care of dependent, neglected and delinquent children up to 18 years of age.

In addition to Miss Lantow, the Apostolate has the services of a part time social worker, Mrs. James Schreier. Family welfare cases are handled by the director, the Rev. Robert Sladek. Marital problems are referred to parishes in the area and relief cases to the local relief office.

The Apostolate furnishes a complete service to the unmarried mother in helping to resolve her problems. This may or may not include the placement of the child for adoption. The agency also carries on an extensive foster home program in the rehabilitation of dependent and neglected children.

Miss Mary Kaeser, Menasha, Apostolate office secretary for the last five years, has resigned her job effective today. She will be replaced by Miss Mary Jo Rosenow.

Litter Law on Books Already, Council Learns

Neenah — This city has an anti-litter ordinance, City Atty. Charles Schaller told the council Wednesday night.

He had been instructed to draw such an ordinance, but study disclosed that the city adopted the state's anti-litter law when it adopted the state traffic code last September.

The state law provides for a $25 fine for any person who throws any waste or debris on any highway or other piece of public or private property.

Schaller was also instructed to study the possibility of an ordinance prohibiting persons from entering Lake Winnebago between E. Wisconsin avenue and Kimberly point. He had originally been instructed to draw an ordinance prohibiting swimming in that area, but found that the lake itself is out of the city's jurisdiction. The technicality of entering the water may be enough to carry the force of such a "no swimming" law, however.

Bomb-Shaped Object Falls; Farmer Suspects Sputnik

Radar Tow Target

Special to Post-Crescent

Green Bay — "I told my wife that I guessed sputnik fell in our yard."

This was the reaction of Andrew Heezen, route 3, Denmark, after he watched a bomb shaped object come hurtling down from the sky and plow into a field about 200 feet from where he was working.

The object later was identified as a radar tow target used by the air force to check the accuracy of ground and aircraft radar units. The identification was made by personnel of the air force filter center here after the pieces were gathered by Sheriff Arley Skendore.

Heezen and a neighbor, Alvin Ourada, both saw the target fall from the sky. Their farms are located about a mile south of Pine Grove.

Whistling Sound

Heezen said he was plowing a garden when he heard a whistling sound. He looked up and saw the target which was then about 100 feet above the ground. It hit about 200 feet from where he was working and about 350 feet from his house.

The targets are attached to a plane with nylon line. Filter center officials said it appeared that the line became entangled in a swivel attached to the target hose and was snapped off. A 4-inch piece of line was still attached to the swivel.

There was no information on the home base of the plane.

"It could have come from Truax field at Madison or some air force base, hundreds of miles away," Sgt. William Powell of the filter center said. He identified the target. He said the towing plane could be flying as high as 30,000 feet but there is no set altitude on such practice runs.

Study of President

Newsman Traces Fading of Nation's Image of Eisenhower

EISENHOWER: CAPTIVE HERO. By Marquis Childs. Harcourt Brace and Co. $4.75. The subtitle calls this "a critical study of the general and the president." Childs, a veteran newspaperman and columnist, bears out the promise of the subtitle.

This is a book for the "I-told-you-so's" — the Republicans who wanted Robert Taft for their candidate in 1952, the Democrats who rightly feared the wartime glories of Eisenhower would be a mighty campaign weapon, all those who voiced doubt that Eisenhower's completely military background would help him find his way through the political jungle for all his good will.

Childs sets the stage in his introduction: "In the first year of the war (World War II) we had a desperate need for a hero. One might also say a guilty need... Eisenhower was chosen to be that hero, to be the symbol of a warmhearted, friendly, simple America, personifying the mighty rush, the Niagara of American power coming into being."

Traces Career Sympathetically, the author traces Eisenhower's career from the wrong side of the

"I know it's a family room. But when we built it, I thought we meant OUR family!"

Enrollments Change Rank Of Colleges

Oshkosh Expected To Be Biggest Of State Schools

Madison — Increased enrollments at the ten Wisconsin state colleges have made all of them bigger and also have changed the rank of the schools with respect to size.

When the new school term begins next month, it appears fairly certain that Wisconsin State college at Oshkosh will move to the top of the list to displace the college at LaCrosse.

Enrollment projections used to calculate biennial budget requests show that the schools will have about 14,628 students during the next academic year and 16,386 during the following year, the regents were told here.

Oshkosh will probably have 1,938 students during the new academic year and during the subsequent year will have more than 2,000. It will be the first college of the system to top the 2,000 mark.

LaCrosse Second LaCrosse will rank second with 1,879, it is expected. Whitewater will be third with 1,739 and Eau Claire fourth with 1,703.

Last year Oshkosh was second, Whitewater third and Eau Claire fourth.

E. R. McPhee, director of the college system, reported to the regents that appropriation requests from the colleges for the next two years are about $7,000,000 above present spending level, which would mean a total request of about $24,500,000.

The budget requests, however, must be reviewed by the regents and by the governor-elect next November and December, before they are transmitted to the legislature that will convene next January.

Sister M. Gertrude and a nun companion left from the Oshkosh airport for the return trip to their native Holland. They were visiting relatives in this vicinity since their arrival in July. Sister Gertrude spent the greater part of the time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Sweere and her companion visited her mother, Mrs. John Herman, at Appleton. County Total Down 400th Traffic Death Marked Late in July

Late in July the motor vehicle department on its accident toll statistics the state's 400th traffic death this year.

Outagamie county so far has had five killed in traffic accidents—two pedestrians and three drivers. The toll is considerably less than the nine killed during the same time last year.

A special study of the first 400 deaths disclosed 316 of the victims were male, 84 female. Male fatalities included 173 drivers, 81 passengers, 56 pedestrians, 8 bicyclists. Female fatalities included 59 pedestrians, 16 drivers, 59 passengers.

Of the 400, 99 were under 20 years of age; 100 were 20 to 34 years old; 85 were 35 to 54 years; 96 were 55 to 74, and 20 were 75 or older.

County Totals By county, deaths making up the first 400 follow: Milwaukee 38; Waukesha 26; Manitowish 18; Dane and Rock 16 each; Shawano and Washington 13 each; Grant and Kenosha 12 each; Columbia and Sheboygan 10 each; Dodge, Fond du Lac, Jefferson and Wood 9 each; Racine 8; Barron, Brown, Douglas, Monroe, Portage, St. Croix and Winnebago 7 each; Walworth and Waupaca 6 each; Clark, Green Lake, Langlade, Marinette, Outagamie and Ozaukee 5 each; Jackson, Trempealeau and Vernon 4 each; Dunn, Eau Claire, Iowa, Juneau, Lincoln, Polk and Rusk 3 each; Ashland, Bayfield, Calumet, Chippewa, Door, Forest, LaCrosse and Pierce 2 each, and Adams, Green, Iron, Kewaunee, Pepin, Price, Sauk, Sawyer, Taylor, Washburn and Waushara, one each.

These nine counties were death-free: Buffalo, Burnett, Crawford, Florence, LaFayette, Marquette, Oneida, Richmond and Vilas.

Increase Coming "In 1957, 60 per cent of Wisconsin traffic deaths occurred in the last six months, while in 1956 we had 62 per cent of the year's deaths during the last half of the year," said Commissioner Melvin Larson.

"Because the latter half of the year is marked by a 10 to 12 per cent increase in fatalities over the first half of the year, it appears that the first 400 this year will be doubled by Thanksgiving Day," warned Larson.

"We can beat these odds only by refusing to gamble with our lives on the streets and highways," he added.

"As motorists, we must drive at controllable speeds. As passengers, we must insist that drivers respect our wishes to remain alive. As pedestrians, we must take steps to keep free from the clutches of death. This means we must cross at intersections, not from behind parked vehicles in mid-block; and when walking along rural highways, we must face approaching traffic, so we can judge when it becomes necessary to step well out of the way of oncoming cars," Larson concluded.

Tokyo Subway Trains Stalled With 11,000 Rush Hour Passengers

Tokyo — A dragging piece of metal short-circuited Tokyo's main subway Wednesday, stalling 14 trains jammed with an estimated 11,000 sweltering rush-hour passengers.

Angry or panicky passengers broke a number of windows on four of the trains stopped in the hot, dark tunnel between stations. The crowd calmed down after the automatic train doors were opened and some 4,000 persons were led along the tracks to exits.

Eight persons became ill from the heat and five of these were hospitalized briefly. No injuries were reported.

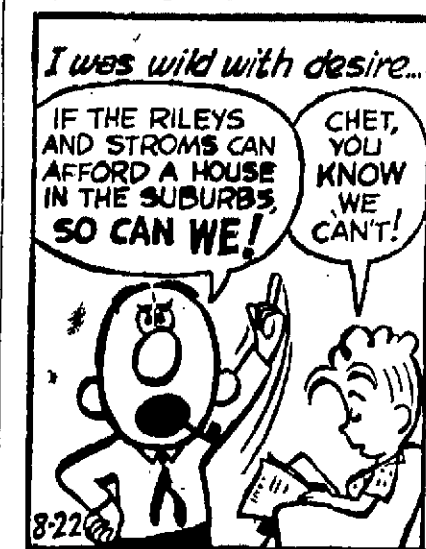

The one and one-half hour tieup started when a fitting on an inbound train slipped down into contact with the electricity-carrying rail.

Urges Education Program

Rabies Shots for Dogs Won't Solve Problem, State Veterinarian Says

Vaccination of all dogs in the city for rabies would not solve the problem and is not feasible now "because of citizen resistance," State Veterinarian Dr. Harry O'Connell believes.

An intensive educational program directed toward voluntary vaccination of household pets would do more for solving the problem, Dr. O'Connell says.

A report of Dr. O'Connell's beliefs was filed with Mayor Clarence A. Mitchell by Dr. E. H. Jorris, assistant state health officer.

The report was in response to an inquiry from Mitchell after a trio of veterinarians asked the city to pass an ordinance requiring vaccination for dogs before dog licenses are issued.

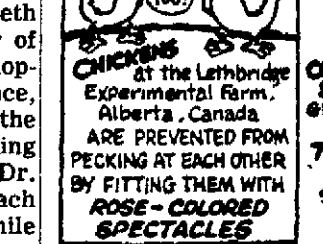

The city board of health endorsed the vets' plea and this year shows 115 from

Brain Surgery Successful For Parkinson's Disease

Dr. Joseph G. Molner, M. D., "Dear Dr. Molner: What about Parkinson's disease, or shaking palsy? Could you give the latest news on the use of high frequency vibrations for the brain operation?"—H. D. M.

Parkinson's (or Parkinson's) disease, or shaking palsy, is rarely seen in people under 50. It is a disease which consists of involuntary tremor, often with some degree of rigidity of the joints in question. It can range from a single tremor of one hand or foot to serious involvement of all extremities. The rigidity in some instances can cause loss of facial expression. There may be excessive saliva, or drooling. The disease may progress slowly, or it may be arrested at some point.

One common form is the "pill-rolling" movement of the fingers when the hand is at rest, but a cessation of this when the hand makes some purposeful movement. (The tremors in all cases stop when the patient is asleep.)

Until recently the treatment has been primarily with medicine. About the first drug was belladonna (which comes from belladonna) but there were side effects that often were annoying—dryness of mouth, blurring of vision, hoarseness, nausea, dizziness. Now we have synthetic drugs, including artane, pagitane, and levodopa and kema-drin. These, frankly, may cause some of the side effects of atropine, but careful dosage, adjusted to the patient, may offset them. Anticholinergics and other drugs often help, too.

Need Permanent Treatment

But, drugs to control the tremor leave something to be desired. If we can find some more permanent treatment—one that doesn't require the repeated doses of drugs and the watchfulness for side effects—we'll be ahead of the problem.

That is where brain surgery comes into the picture. Hardly been risky at first.

In the beginning it was a highly risky business; today neurosurgeons (brain surgeons) are using the technique with good success because, among other things, experience has shown which cases are suitable and which are not.

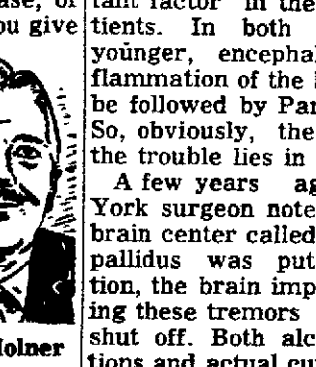

Still more recently, ultra high frequency sound waves have been used in some research in the midwest (Iowa and Illinois) and the narrow beam of the sound wave is used instead of alcohol or cutting to shut off the impulses causing either tremor or rigidity—and the pioneers in this report that the beam can be controlled so precisely as to affect one arm or hand or leg at a time.

It is called "bloodless surgery," an excellent term for it, too, except that the skull must first have an opening made for the sound beams. It does, however, avoid the need for cutting down into the brain. At the last report I saw, only a dozen patients had been treated. Like all new things, this must be tested, watched, developed. It surely looks like progress, but the treatment is not yet at a stage where it is ready or available for general use.

Coombs' Blood Test

"Dear Dr. Molner: What is the purpose of a Coombs' blood test?"—Mrs. E. C. W.

It's a test to determine a type of fragileness of red blood cells in certain blood diseases (as erythroblastosis, and hemolytic anemia) where the red blood cells break down at a rate faster than normal. (Copyright, 1958)

Proxmire Halts Diversion Bill's Senate Report

But Blocking Move Only Temporary and Displeases Senators

Washington—(U)—Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) took advantage of Senate rules Tuesday to block a committee report favoring a bill to permit Chicago to take more Lake Michigan water.

The Wisconsin Democrat's objection angered an Illinois senator and brought chiding comment from another senator.

Senator Francis Case (R-SD) reminded Proxmire the report could be filed in the Senate without objection this morning anyway. Case expressed doubt that Proxmire's move would win friends for opponents of the bill.

Improper Conduct

Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill) accused Proxmire of improper conduct.

"I have every right to object," Proxmire told Douglas. He added he felt he acted in the public interest.

The measure, similar to legislation twice vetoed by President Eisenhower in previous years, would permit Chicago to divert an additional 1,000 cubic feet of water per second from Lake Michigan to flush its sanitary canal system.

The bill was passed by the House and gained the approval of the Senate Public Works Committee.

Tot Takes Off for Ride on El Train

Philadelphia—(U)—Three-year-old Stanley Hene, wearing boxer shorts, moccasins and a big smile, left home Wednesday.

Though he didn't have any money, he got on the subway-elevated line from his home in the Kensington section and went for a joyride clear to the end of the line at suburban Upper Darby, a trip of several miles. On the way back he stopped off at city hall to check up on things there.

Then he started for home. Meanwhile, his frantic mother, who had parked him in the family yard to play, notified police. They looked high and low, but they never thought of the el.

Stanley, on his way home, fell into conversation with a couple of older men—say 15 or 16 years of age—who found out his name and notified the police.

The law returned him to his worried family, tired and more than a little dirty.

Though the day was virtually a total loss for the searchers, it wasn't that way for Stanley.

In one of the grimy little fists, he clutched 30 cents or a profit of, say, three ice cream cones on the day's activities.

Stanley didn't say where the money came from.

McLean Praises Play of Defense In 3rd Quarter

But Says Downpour Took 'Good' Aspects From Steeler Tilt

Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — Packer Coach Ray McLean admitted the downpour took the "good" out of Green Bay's opener against Pittsburgh Wednesday but "there was one thing that we all liked and that was the play of the defense in the third quarter."

McLean said "We had mostly rookies in the third and part of the fourth and they were tough. The Steelers didn't do much against them you know."

Gained Eight Yards

For the record, the Steelers had the ball for 16 plays in the third period and gained a total of eight yards. Only two veteran regulars were in the lineup at the time—Nate Borden at end, Hank Gremminger at cornerback and Bobby Dillon at deep defense. The rest of the lineup included Ken Gray and Ed Culpepper at the tackles, Hank Bulough, normally an offensive guard, at one end and line-backers Dan Currie, Ray Nitschke, Esker Harris and Neil Habig and Al Romine deep.

The best gain on this bunch was a 10-yard skid by Earl Morrall but that was a fluke. Earl went back to pass and Culpepper was in on him like a flash but Morrall buttered out of Ed's grasp and advanced. On another occasion Gray tackled a Steeler for a 2-yard loss on a wide play to the opposite side of his position.

Made 1st Down

Morrall made a first down on the Culpepper rush but on the next series Nitschke made two straight key tackles on "Tank" Younger and George Volkert to force a punt. The next time Pitt got the ball Dillon performed an interception.

The tackle chart showed Dave Hanner leading the Pack with seven tackles while Borden and Bulough made six each. And that's more tackles than Hank made all year as a rookie offensive guard in 1955. He had been in the service the last two years. Gray and veteran Tom Bettis, who received the thumbs from the officials for unpleasantness, each had five tackles. Nitschke and Danjean each made four. Bill Forester, bothered by a sore throat, played long enough to get four tackles. What a place to expose a sore throat!

McLean called a halt to things Thursday. The team returned from Milwaukee Thursday noon. It was back to work today — class room study in the morning and practice this afternoon.

Still Raining
McLean and aides Jack Morton, "Breezy" Reid, Ray Richards and Nick Skorch viewed Pitt game pictures.

Iveaux Andersen Second in Total Points With 3,152

Neenah — Tim Catlin sailed his Ro-Dam-U-Ro home first in the E class to lead Nodaway skippers in the fifty-sixth annual Inland Lake Yachting association regatta here Thursday. The regatta was scheduled to conclude today.

Catlin led by 10 boat lengths at the end of the first leg and later increased it to 20. He fought off a late rush by Gordon Lindeman of Pine Lake and Tom Gunderson of Dela-

Burdette's 4-Hitter Shuts Out Dodgers, Ends 3-Game Skid

Lew, Aaron Homer in Braves' 4-0 Win Which Hikes NL Lead

By the Associated Press

Yep, it's almost fall and World Series time. There's the smell of burning leaves. There's Lew Burdette, pitching the big shutout again.

It's been a long summer for the big right-hander who pitched the Milwaukee Braves to the world championship last October. At the All-Star game in July he had only a 6-7 record. Those winter banquets that toasted his victories and two shutouts over the New York Yankees in the Series were as much to blame as anything.

But since the All-Star break he's won eight of 10. He beat the Los Angeles Dodgers, 4-0, Thursday night with a 4-hitter.

It was only his second shut-out of the season—all he didn't walk a man, struck out five and didn't allow a base runner after Gil Hodges, who had two of the Dodgers' hits, singled with two out in the fourth inning.

Burdette also hit his third home run of the season—all at the Coliseum—as the Braves regained a 6½-game lead in the National league race after losing three in a row to the Dodgers.

Hank Aaron's twenty-seventh home run opened a 4-run fourth for the Braves against losing southpaw Sandy Koufax (9-7). Duke Snider's error, Andy Pafko's double and Burdette's homer wrapped it up.

It was the seventh Milwaukee victory over the fourth-place Dodgers who have beaten them 12 times this year. The defeat broke a Los Angeles winning streak at four games. The triumph allowed the Braves to tie another game onto their lead when the second place San Francisco Giants were defeated.

Braves Get 10 Hits

Koufax, who was yanked in the fifth, took his seventh defeat against nine victories. He, Johnny Klippstein and Clem Labine allowed the Braves 10 hits.

Aaron is now third in the National league home run derby, third in runs-batted-in with 78 and tied with Willie Cedar Rapids used homers from Bob Taylor and Horace Garner, plus Jack Caffery's solid pitching to beat Davenport after dropping the first two games of the series.

Lee Handley's single with two out followed a Winona error and a sacrifice for Burlington's victory. Rudy Horvath pitched all 12 innings for Winona.

2,066 See Fox Cities '9' Extend Streak to 4; Furlow Hurls Shutout in Opener

BY JOHN L. FAUSTIAN

Post-Crescent Sports Editor

None of the 2,066 paying galleryites who saw the Fox Cities Foxes flatten Green Bay's Bluejays twice (5-0 and 4-3) at Goodland field Thursday night had reason to feel short - changed.

Approximately 100 of the Downtown Furlow.

Appleton Merchants' Booster night fans won gifts on the basis of their crowd-estimating acumen.

Those who didn't win had the privilege of seeing those rare developments unfold:

1. The Foxes won their first home doubleheader of the season, and second, altogether (Burlington fell victim May 22 in Beg-town).

2. The double win completed the first sweep of the season of a home series longer than two games (the Foxes had beaten the Jays, 16-9, Tuesday in the 3-game set opener).

3. With a glittering 4-hitter in the opener, Earl Furlow produced the first Foxes' shut-out in exactly two months (Dick Griffith had been the last previous whitewash, with 2-0 job on Cedar Rapids June 21).

Having reduced the run-perup Bluejays' Three-I league flag prospects to near-nil proportions, the upstart Foxes will try to put the needle to another first-division club, Winona, tonight. If right-hander Ted Sadowski (8-9) can subdue the A's in the opener of a 4-game cluster at Goodland field, the Foxes will equal their longest win streak of the season (five). Game-time for tonight's couple's night ($1 admission per pair) attraction is 8:30.

The snappily performing Foxes came up with timely hits in both games. The Jays—even with several hitherto injured "regulars" back in the lineup—were held scoreless in 15 of the 16 innings played.

No Errors For Foxes
And, while the Foxes played errorless ball in the twin bill, the Jays miscued five times.

Green Bay now trails front-running Cedar Rapids (6-2 winner over Davenport) by five games with only 19 remaining.

Furlow's dazzler was followed up by a 7-hit, Rene Nodarse-Berto Cueto collaboration in the 7-inning nightcap. Nodarse worked the first four before a bit of arm trouble sidelined him. Cueto, in his first Foxes' appearance, protected a 1-run lead through three scoreless rounds to receive credit for the win.

Every Fox but Bob Tano hit safely in the opener, as starter-loser Bob Sedlak and first reliever Ed Strickel were combed for 11 safeties. Fireman Dean Mink, who also did well in second-game relief work, pitched a hitless eighth inning.

The gangly Furlow arranged an extended hitting fur-rough for every Bluejay hit Frank Howard. Big Frank, the Jays' 6-foot-6 counterpart of Furlow, got three of his team's four hits: a first-inning double to left, a sixth-inning scratcher and a ninth-inning clean single. Earl Robinson got the only other Blue-jay hit—a second inning single.

Fans Brodsky
The whiplash arm of Furlow permitted a baserunner to venture as far as third on only one occasion—in the sixth inning. With men on first and third and two out, Furlow struck out Shelly Brodsky.

Small but neatly-packaged scoring outbreaks in the first four innings gave Furlow more than enough working margin.

Dantoni led off the first with a single to center and stole second. Two outs later, Car-

Miller Electric 2, Police 1.

Tonight's Games:

Weitenge's vs. Riverside (6 o'clock).
Coated Paper vs. Krambo (7:15).
SSAC vs. Miller Electric (8:30).

In the only quarter-final game, Interlake dropped YMCA, 5-0, in the City Softball tournament Thursday night.

Both "Sonny" Filz for the "Y" and Bob Diener for Interlake pitched 1-hitters.

The other three quarter-finals will be played tonight. Filz seven walks and his team mates' four errors proved to be his undoing. Milt Drier's triple was the only hit for Interlake. Ken Lichtenberg smashed the YMCA's hit, a single, but was thrown out trying to stretch it into a double.

Diener struck out six.

Krambo Wins

Krambo edged UCT, 6-5, in an 8-inning contest. Krambo broke a 4-4 tie with two runs in the top of the eighth as Earl Timm singled, went to second on an error, and scored on Arvid McGuire's single. McGuire went to second and third on wild pitches and scored the deciding run on an error. UCT managed only one run in the last of the eighth.

Don Reichelt tossed a 2-hitter as Miller Electric stopped Police, 2-1, with a run in the bottom of the seventh. Ken Uhlenbrauck singled, Mel Ludwig walked, and a wild throw to third to get Uhlenbrauck allowed him to score.

Defending champion Riverside No. 1 downed Slim Otto's 10-3. Norm McIntyre and "Bud" Horn combined to twirl a 6-hitter.

Darien, Conn. —(P)—The youth movement in women's golf Thursday brought three college girls and a jobless "old timer," who'll be all of 26 this fall, into today's semifinals of the U. S. Women's Amateur Golf championship. The first match sent Jo Anne Gunderson, the 18-year-old defending champion, against Anne Quast, a rival since their junior golf days in Washington.

The second paired Barbara Romack, 1954 winner, against Meriam Bailey, Palestine, Ill.

Miss Gunderson, the tall, blonde daughter of a Seattle carpenter, is a sophomore at Arizona State college at Tempe. Miss Quast, who will be 21 Aug. 31, is a senior at

Romack Bailey

Stanford. Miss Bailey, also 20, is a senior at Northwestern university.

Miss Romack has been playing golf since she was 12, won her first big title, the Canadian Women's championship, in 1952, and follows the women's amateur circuit, in Florida each winter.

Yesterday she eliminated Mrs. George Valentine of Scotland, last survivor of the British Curtis cup team 4 and 3. Then she went on to beat Bertha Long of Huntington, W. Va., by a whopping 6 and 4.

Miss Bailey beat Curtis cup veteran Polly Riley, Fort Worth, Texas, 2 up.

Turner-Redl Bout Figures To Be Lively

New York —(P)—Welterweight Gil Turner, a fighter with a hefty bankroll, and Stefan Redl, a 5-year-old newcomer who would like to build up a roll, clash tonight in the 10-round television feature at Madison Square garden.

Turner, 27, more experienced and a harder hitter, is the 8.5 favorite. It should be a lively scrap all the way.

Waukesha's Durant Wins Junior Title In American Shoot

Vandalia, Ohio —(P)—Eugene Durant of Waukesha Thursday won the junior championship in the preliminary handicap, the day's feature event in the 59th Grand American Trapshoot.

Durant broke 97 of 100 targets from 22 yards. He claimed the title when 17-year-old Tom Errico of Highland Park, Ill., also a junior entrant, outshot the field and elected to take the top prize of $2,500.

who will endeavor to unseat Lohr. They include Neenal Ridgeway's Bob Below, who is not only the most recent pro to win the title but also the latest Fox Cities delegate to win top honors.

Twenty-three clubs make up the NEWGA membership. Last year, in the meet held on his home (Pine Hills) course, Lohr scored a sizzling 136, while runnerup Tom Puls had a 140. Puls has since turned pro and is now affiliated with a Milwaukee club.

John Hayes and Bob Martin, Appleton Butte des Morts, have won am-am best ball honors for the last two years. In 1956, they took a clear title with a 65, and last year, they shared it with Green Bay Oneida's Steve Smith and Gary Rosenberg, at 68.

Fred Thiel and "Chuck" Beaumont, of Sheboygan Riverdale, were pro-am winners last year with a 68. Riverdale took team honors.

Major League Stars

Ernie Banks, Cubs, drove in all of Chicago's runs in a 3-2 victory over the Braves. He struck out five, didn't walk a man and retired every man he faced over the last five innings.

Low Burdette became first to shut out the Dodgers at Los Angeles, ending Milwaukee's losing streak at three with a 4-inning for a walk and a man and retired every man he faced over the last five innings.

Braves-Foxes Defeat ARD's Elm Tree 10-5

Dave Krueger was the winning pitcher, Bobby Grishaber hit a 3-run homer for the winners.

Kubek Requests Deferment to Play In World Series

Milwaukee —(P)—Outfielder Tony Kubek of the New York Yankees has asked for a 40-day deferment in reporting for military service so he can play in the World Series.

Kubek, of Milwaukee, was reported Sept. 4 for a 6-month tour of duty in the Army reserve program.

Col. Charles C. Ege, sector commander for the Wisconsin military district, said the request probably would be granted because it was for business reasons, sickness or other considerations have frequently been granted.

McLean Praises Play of Defense In 3rd Quarter

last night. "It was still raining," McLean laughed.

Jim Shanley, the Packers' highly touted "little" back, didn't carry against Pittsburgh. "That's no field for guys his size so we didn't run him," McLean said. The Steelers tried their tiny back — Billy Wells — and he gained a mere seven yards in six attempts. "You've got to use your big heavy backs in that heavy going," McLean said.

And, speaking about weight here's a question. How much extra weight did any one of the busy players carry in mud and water Wednesday night? We say 20 pounds — as a wild guess. Those shoulder pads, long wool socks and jerseys are heavy enough and soaked. And then fill the shoes with water. It's the wonder anybody could run.

McLean and his henchmen are figuring out cuts this morning and they expected to arrive at some decisions early this afternoon. The s. q. u. d. must be cut from 57 players but the rainy game made judgement of the players somewhat complicated.

48 Plays

The Steelers had the ball for 48 scrimmage plays including 37 rushes and 11 passes. The Packers had it for 43 on 30-13. It could have been more lopsided in favor of Pitt in view of the fact that the Steelers already played a game—in the mud of Akron vs the Browns.

It won't happen again in another million years—this business of having no kickoff after a field goal or touchdown. But that's what happened Wednesday night. The gun went off ending the game about the time the ball landed behind the end zone upright.

Harry Melges of Lake Geneva won the A scow race to retain his first place position in the regatta standings. He has 2,744 points. He skips Ernest C. Schmidt's Senta III.

Clyde Buckstaff of Oshkosh, Tuesday's winner, was second and R. H. "Gus" Larson of Neenah finished third. The latter previously had two fourth places. W. R. Kellett of Nodaway, Wednesday's winner, capsized and didn't finish the race. Bob Kimberling, Nodaway club commodore, placed eighth.

Walter Schwarting of Pewaukee won Thursday's C scow race in his Salty III. Tom Sawyer of Pewaukee placed second and Rich Swanson of Lake Geneva was third.

Mike Flannigan of Lake Okoboji (Iowa), leader the first two days, was disqualified and relinquished his lead to C. B. Goes of Lake Geneva. The latter, who was eighth in Thursday's race, has 2,215 points.

Good sailing conditions greeted the sailors with winds of from 15 to 20 miles per hour. The wind strengthened near the end of the afternoon's races and gusts of 25 miles per hour and up were recorded.

Cooper-Fraser Duo Triumphs

Defending Champs Turn Brilliant Match

Brooklyn, Mass. —(P)—Veteran Gardnar Mulloy, a finalist last year, challenges Davis cuppers Sam Chalmers and Barry MacKay with a new partner today in the men's quarter-finals of the National Doubles Tennis tournament.

Whitney Reed, eighth ranked U. S. singles player, joins Mulloy in the No. 7 pair seeking an upset of the third seeded Americans.

Mulloy won the national crown four times with Billy Talbert in the 1940s and lost to Ashley Cooper and Neale Fraser of Australia in 1957 title match at Longwood paired with Budge Patty.

Defenders Cooper and Fraser turned back inspired Mike Davies and Billy Knight of England 8-6, 10-8, 13-11 in a brilliant exhibition Thursday.

The other men's quarter test was won by "Ham" Richardson of New Orleans and Alex Olmedo of Los Angeles and Peru from Australia's Bob Mark and Rod Laver, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4.

Mays for third place in hitting honors. They have .328 averages.

Koufax had allowed only two hits before Aaron chipped one of his offfers over the screen in left. It was his seventh homer off Dodger pitcher, Joe Adcock then drove a liner to center, but Duke Snider dropped it for a 2-2 tie.

Adcock scored when Andy Pafko sliced a fly to right and it bounced off Carl Furillo's glove and into the stands for a ground rule double. Burdette completed the scoring with his homer.

The Braves, who are idle today, will complete the 5-game series here Saturday and then move north for five games with the Giants.

los Pascual laced a 1-base liner to left center to score the only really essential run.

In the second, "Chick" Payne slapped a 2-out double on Hank Marockie's single to right.

Singles by Jimmy Hall and "Tex" Taylor plus a wild pitch set the stage for Bob Van Dyke's 2-run grass-clipper to center field in the third. The Foxes called it a game, runwise, in the fourth when Taylor singled behind successful walks to Tano and Pascual.

Can't Spring Trap

The Foxes' four second game tallies were all unearned. The first of these — in the first inning — was aided on its way by losing pitcher "Emmy" Unzicker. The little lefty had Dantoni trapped off first after Don had beaten out an infield hit. The trap was never sprung, as the elusive Dantoni first dodged and danced his way out of trouble then barreled safely into second when Unzicker muffed one of the multiple relay throws.

Tano drove Dantoni home with a double that whistled past third, just inches inside the foul line.

The Foxes made it 4-0 in the second. Van Dyke was safe as shortstop G. H. Wallace erred on a hard-hit ball. Payne singled him to third. After Marockie fanned, Nordard hit the ball sailed between his legs, letting in scoring and putting two men in scoring position. Dantoni capitalized on the opportunity with a 2-RBI smash up the middle.

Score 3 in Third

The Jays did their only scoring of the night in the third inning. Terry Robertson walked to lead it off. After a fly-out, pinch batter Ed Rakow singled Ed Robertson to third. Ozzie Walker's sacrifice fly put the first run across. Wallace doubled to right center, scoring Rakow. Howard singled past the shortstop to count Wallace.

Cueto, whom the Foxes recently got from the Class C,

Missoula club in "exchange" for Griffith, displayed a zinging fast ball and a sidearm delivery that spelled woe for the Jays. Cueto allowed only two singles in his three innings and induced the dangerous Howard to hit into a game-ending force play with the tying run on base.

The double victory enabled the Foxes to cut their second round deficit against Green Bay to 6-7 and their full-season deficit to 10-13. Their three remaining games with the Jays will be played in Joannes Park.

Wandering Dutch Girl Travels Country Between Rotary Clubs

BY BETTY KILICH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A charming, young Dutch girl who's jogging across the country from Rotary club to Rotary club stopped in at Appleton this week to sample the city's hospitality.

She's visited factories here, toured the Post-Crescent, sat in at a Rotary club meeting and sweltered in the hot weather of the last several days.

"It just never gets as hot in Amsterdam as it seems to here. I'm happy I bought some lighter clothes," smiles Liesje van Saane, the 21-year-old teacher-traveler. She's staying with the O. C. Boldt family, a Rotary family, at 512 W. Fourth street.

A trip to the United States had been a goal of the exuberant young woman ever since she got her teaching diploma last year, but the means of getting here stumped her.

When a girl friend called her one day last winter, however, the traveling problems were solved. She decided in three days to make the trip—and here she is.

California Home
The friend told Liesje of an American family who'd been in Amsterdam with an American firm the last year. They were ready to travel back to their home in Modesto, Calif., and were looking for someone to take care of their three youngsters.

Liesje volunteered and Liesje went.

She came to California in early December and stayed with the family until the end of May, when she decided to spend some time wandering the country before returning home and to the classroom.

Because her father is a prominent Rotarian in Amsterdam, he suggested she plan her itinerary between Rotary clubs. When the president of the Modesto Rotary was approached with the idea, he thought it an excellent one, helped plan her route, wrote to various Rotary clubs around the country telling them of Liesje and finally dispatched her on her way.

Before arriving in Appleton she visited Salt Lake City, Yellowstone, several cities in Montana and South Dakota and now plans to tour New Orleans, Birmingham, Boston and New York before leaving for home.

Busy Times
"Oh my, I've been busy," she reports in her meticulous English. "There hasn't been any time to write home and I've been kept running every place I've been. That's good. I want to do as much as I can when I'm here. Who knows when I'll ever be able to get back again?"

Because she's trained to be a teacher, Liesje is vitally interested in education and was able to visit several schools in California.

"It seems almost everybody is interested in education and its problems here," she notes. "Schools are much different and, I think, much easier. Here you have a choice of a lot of subjects, in Holland we must take certain ones. "In our high schools, for instance, we must learn English, French and German. Because French is so difficult, all children start learning it in the fourth grade."

When it was pointed out Appleton, too, teaches conversational French on the fourth grade level, she thought it an excellent idea.

Early Reading
The young woman also noted she is qualified to teach youngsters from 3 to 6 years old in what would be the equivalent of this country's nursery schools and kindergarten.

"It's a sort of progressive method we use," she explained, "and we work individually with each child. Each child goes along at his own rate of speed but we teach them to read and write before they enter the elementary grades."

When she gets back to Amsterdam, the new teacher says, she would like to start a private school in her home. "Or maybe," she says, her thirst for wandering the globe becoming prominent, "I could get a job in the nursery of a steamship line."

The great American production called picnics seemed to offer her constant amusement.

"Here, when you say you're going to have a picnic you get all sorts of food and equipment together, spend a long time packing it into the car, then everyone gets into the car, rides out some packing, spends a long time unpacking again, then packing up the car again and going back home."

"In Holland a picnic wouldn't be a picnic, in the first place, if we didn't go by bicycle. We bike out to some pretty place or until we get tired, unpack our lunch—usually just some bread and cheese—eat it, rest and then bike on. It's much simpler."

A Flag From the Appleton Rotary club was presented to Miss Liesje van Saane, 21, Amsterdam, when she visited an Appleton meeting this week. The young teacher-traveler, daughter of a prominent Amsterdam Rotarian, is traveling this country from Rotary club to Rotary club. She is shown with David Fult, left, president of the Appleton club, and O. C. Boldt, of the international service committee. Liesje is staying at the Boldt home during her week-long visit in the city.

Elaborate Life
In fact, she found, all of American life seems to be conducted on a much more elaborate scale. There are not as many electrical appliances in Holland, she explains. Only a very few people have dishwashers, a few have washing machines or television and she'd never heard of a garbage disposal unit until she got here.

Liesje also remarked on the different role played by sports in this country.

"You have much more of it in your schools than we have. There are no sports in Dutch schools. Learning comes first, but if you want to have sports, you join clubs."

Although Liesje is not the first in her family to travel the United States, she's been here the longest, she laughs. Her parents were in Chicago for the Rotary International convention several years ago and, during her journeys through the east, she plans to visit the family with whom her brother stayed during the summer he spent here under the Experiment for International Living.

"And maybe I'll be able to come back again," she says wistfully, as she pushes her short hair in place and takes off for a tour of a paper mill.

King George Offered to Write Hitler

London.—The late King George VI wanted to write to Adolf Hitler in 1938—"as one ex-serviceman to another"—in an attempt to head off war, but the British cabinet turned down the idea.

This was disclosed by the king's official biographer, Historian John Wheeler-Bennett.

Bennett, who had access to the late monarch's diaries, said the king offered to make a personal appeal in a letter to Hitler to save the youth of England and Germany from the horrors of another war.

Another revelation in the biography is that George VI wanted Lord Halifax as prime minister instead of Winston Churchill after Neville Chamberlain resigned in the early days of World War II.

But the late king became one of Churchill's most ardent admirers after he became prime minister and they worked together closely in the march to victory. They were firm friends until George's death in 1952.

The monarch in modern Britain is usually regarded as little more than a constitutional figurehead. But the biography of George VI—to be serialized later this month by the Daily Telegraph, which handed out a press preview today—reveals he played an important role in the nation's affairs.

George VI, father of reigning Queen Elizabeth II, ascended unexpectedly to the throne in 1936 after the abdication of his brother Edward, now duke of Windsor.

Town Reenacts History of Ohio Valley Capture

Bedford, Pa.—Here in this southwestern Pennsylvania community of 3,500 Gen. Forbes constructed the first of three forts in his capture of the Ohio valley.

That was some 200 years ago.

But if you were to come here today, you would find yourself surrounded with an atmosphere of those days.

Men, women and children are dressed as colonials. The Ft. Bedford brigade parades the streets with antique muskets.

Bedford citizens are celebrating the town's 200th birthday by reenacting its history. Gen. Forbes named the community after an ancestor of the present Duke of Bedford, who came from England to help kick off the affair.

Among dignitaries expected to attend the celebration are Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, Pennsylvania Gov. George M. Leader, Mayor David Lawrence of Pittsburgh, Sen. Edward Martin (R-Pa) and representatives of the British embassy.

A mammoth historical parade a mile and a half long is scheduled for Saturday. Stressing the historical theme of the parade, an official said: "The most modern thing in it is a 1931 car."

Fleetwood approached programming with cultured intelligence, selecting from great stores of records many items which were unusual and which one listened to as one might to an instructive lecture. Altogether it was a great contribution.

It has now been abandoned after many years and in its place has come an ordinary mish-mash of good and vulgar music in a wide but meaningless range.

It must be granted that what is called popular music is popular, but the attendance this summer at Tanglewood, exceeding all previous records, cannot be ignored even by the most rigid balance-sheet studier. For Tanglewood, except on one night when Arthur Fiedler puts on a wonderful show, makes no compromise with vulgar music, and Fiedler can make jazz sound classical. Tanglewood may occasionally be responsible for some stupid exhibitionism of which modern composers are sometimes guilty, but it does not lower its standards to sell tickets.

So Tanglewood had more young people than ever and it costs a bit to get there and to get into the grounds. And this year the enthusiasm was enormous. Radio might think that one over—even from a cash register point of view.
